Y. M. C. A. in Poland For Success, Deserve! Mussolini on Beards $25 Food Bill

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

AMERICANS desiring to be of use in the world might begin at home, and over there. Men and women, rich, still arriving, no doubt spent large sums building up the Y. M. C. A. in Poland, a more than 95 per cent Catholic country.

Now Cardinal Kakowski, archbishop of Warsaw, speaking, as he tells Polish Catholics, with the Pope's authority, warns all Catholics against the Y. M. C. A. as a "Protestant-controlled" religious organization.

* * *

POLISH Catholic parents are asked to discontinue all support from that organization and not allow their children to join it, or share its activities.

The cardinal's warning reads in part: "I warn the Christian population under my leadership against the pernicious influence of the Y. M. C. A. on Catholic youths. I base my warning on the Pope's decree, dated November 13, 1924. The Y. M. C. A. is neither Polish nor Catholic. It is supported by Protestants and heretics, and any one who gives a cent to this institution is harming the church and Polish youth."

* * *

It is said the Y. M. C. A. in Poland must disappear before the cardinal's attack. It would be wise for good American Protestants to realize that their attempts to force religious views on others are as unpopular as bolshevik effort to spread Communist doctrine here.

People like to do their own national thinking and believing.

IF you want success, outside of politics, DESERVE IT. California, like the forty-seven other states, wants to be popular and have many visitors. Her "All-year Club" advertises the state abroad, and California, having already the finest roads in the world, will spend $75,000,000 on MORE good roads this year.

* * *

MUSSOLINI tells Adolph Kinast, Swiss newspaperman, many things that show confidence in Mussolini and plans that Providence has made for him.

"Destiny has appointed me as the man to purify the soul of Italy," says Italy's ruler. He is about to have Parliament pass a set of laws, saying, "Every paragraph of these laws shall be obeyed."

* * *

ITALY is to be made pure, and beards, among other things, are to be abolished. Mussolini calls them "Masks of solemn humbugs and nests for disease germs.

* * *

ALEXANDER the Great shaved his face and made his soldiers do it, that the enemy, fighting with the short sword, might not seize the beard as a handle to help in cutting off the head. Mussolini objects to beards as nests for germs, another and worse "enemy." Mussolini says he refuses to be assassinated, will live to 90 and then retire, leaving instructions for Italy's guidance. Italians believe him, and no wonder! He believes in himself.

* * *

WE call ours a democratic government and Mussolini's an autocratic government. Mussolini drives young aristocrats out of the diplomatic service, saying he wants young men that have proved their ability.

We are encouraging so-called "career men" in our diplomacy, which means young gentlemen whose fathers can afford to keep their boys well supplied with money at foreign courts, and send them abroad knowing "how to enter a drawing room." Lincoln would find it hard to qualify as a career man for the diplomatic service.

MRS. ESTER MEIDEL, Norwegian housewife, shows how to feed a family of four well on $25 a month. She will soon be able to buy her book, translated.

More important in America, however, than our system of increasing wages, that makes it unnecessary to save the bread crumbs for puddings and limit to 12,000 calories daily a family of four.

As many calories as I want and some margin for extravagance," is the American demand. And nor "How

Bound in Bandages Henry Ford Goes on With Work

DETROIT, Apr. 4 — Although tightly bound in a lacework of surgical bandages, Henry Ford went to work today in the bedroom of his million dollar home at Dearborn.

The motor genius called for a bundle of blue-prints, a half dozen pencils and whiled away the hours of his temporary imprisonment working up designs for a section of the new Ford car which will go upon the market in the not distant future. The auto king plotted and jotted, hopeful that the quiet atmosphere of the sick chamber would bring him flashes of mechanical ingenuity. The blueprints were said to relate to a new type of axle which he intends placing in the new Ford.

The auto king issued one ultimatum over the week-end. He told his physicians that he would not accept the invalid's role which they sought to impose upon him for the next two weeks while he convalesces from injuries sustained a week ago last night when his car was knocked off the boulevard near his estate by a careless or plotting motorist. The billionaire told his medical advisers he intended being back at his factory within a week.

Objects to Cast

The motor czar was particularly annoyed by the surgical splints attached to his back and chest, when it was first believed he might have suffered a crushed lung in the accident. The splints forced Ford to lie flat on his back and over the week-end, it was understood, the physicians removed them at his insistence. The physicians sought to place Ford in a plaster cast but the motor king was reported as objecting even to this restriction of movement. Who won the argument was not learned although the auto king did submit to considerable bandaging.

Ford wants to get up and out, not only so he can return to his mechanical laboratory but so he can appear as a witness in the Ford-Sapiro libel suit. The flivver king wants to correct any impression that may have gone out to the American people, as a result of his accident, that he is trying to avoid appearing at the trial.

One of his friends said the motor king would take the witness stand, when summoned by Sapiro's counsel, even if he had to go into the court room on a stretcher. He will not be called, however, until he is completely recovered and his health will not be jeopardized by the courtroom ordeal.

Rapidly Recovering

Ford is rapidly recovering, it was learned, although his medical advisers still are guarding against all complications. The danger of his contracting pneumonia has virtually passed, it was said, because none of the symptoms had appeared in the seven days that intervened since the accident. At first, however, he spat blood, complained of pains in the chest and abdomen and had a high fever. All these symptoms of pneumonia had resulted in his removal to the Henry Ford Hospital, where expert diagnostirians examined him. When it was found that Ford had no broken bones, and the blood disappeared from his sputum, the physicians decided he had only strained his muscles and tendons in his chest and back. This resulted in placing him in splints.

All investigations into the motor crash, which Ford believed was an attempt on his life, have now been dropped.

SITUATION ON UPPER YANGTZE AGAIN SERIOUS

Likely That Powers Will Issue Concerted Protest To Cantonese Government

REPORTS RECEIVED

Chinese Sampans Kept from Gunboat Monacacy with Riot Guns

Open conflict between the Chinese and foreign troops has been renewed, and the situation in the upper Yangtze Valley again appears serious.

American sailors are reported to have fired on Chinese mobs at Chunking and reports received in Shanghai state that the Japanese have been forced to drop shells upon Hankow after serious disorders there, during which there was open fighting between the Japanese and the Chinese.

Mobs of looters and agitators are reported to have clashed with British forces at Shashi.

Americans On Ships

United States Consul Lockhart at Hankow has reported to the legation at Peking that all Americans at Hankow have sought safety aboard American warships following the clash between the Japanese and the Chinese. Peking reports state that 10 Japanese were killed.

The Nationalist armies are now reported to be moving northward making steady advances. Three columns are advancing with Peking as their eventual goal.

Marshal Chang Tso Lin in Peking is reported to have received advices that his troops have administered a defeat to the Nationalists and have captured Yen Cheng.

Shanghai dispatches state that the dismissal of Chiang Kai Shek is again reported from Hankow, but there are no indications that the military leader intends to accept his dismissal and there is every indication of a split within the Nationalist party.

NEGOTIATIONS NEAR ACTION POINT

Washington, Apr. 4—Negotiations between the powers over the critical state of affairs in China have reached a point where it is likely a strong and concerted protest will be made to the Cantonese government this week over the Nanking outrage and other anti-foreign outbreaks.

The action of the powers probably will embrace a demand for reparations, and a sharp warning against further outrages upon foreign lives and property, but, according to all indications here, will fall short of the ultimatum which the British government has been insisting be served upon the Nationalists. An ultimatum carries with it inherently the threat of sanctions and reprisals, and on that point the British and American viewpoints diverged.

Attitude Stiffens

The attitude of the Washington government has been stiffened considerably since Friday by the Davis report. This document, only part of which has been made public contains the conclusions of the American consul at Nanking on the outrage there. It definitely fixes responsibility for the loss of seven foreign lives and the looting of foreign property upon the Nationalist commanders, and is so bitterly anti-Cantonese that the state department cannot fail to take cognizance of it.

Admiral Williams' report stated, "At Chunking, on Apr. 2, it became necessary for an armed guard from the American river gunboat Monacacy, which was on board the American steamer Chinan to use riot guns to keep off Chinese sampans who were determined upon revenge because of unauthorized cargo being removed, due to the fact that it was endangering the ship. Three Chinese were wounded, one probably fatally. A demonstration has been planned for today by agitators in protest against the force used by authorities on Mar. 31. The American consul is on board the Monacacy and is still awaiting a reply from missionaries in the interior.

"British gunboats Mananias, Widgeon, and Teal arrived at Ichang on Apr. 1 from Chunking. Communistic posters have been placed upon the residences and business places of wealthy Chinese at Ichang. After the arrival of the Monacacy the El Cano, which has been stationed at Ichang during the winter, will withdraw with the Monacacy to Hankow.

No Definite Decision

Secretary of State Kellogg said today no definite decision had been reached concerning the scope of the protest.

Consular reports to the department confirmed the fears expressed by some Americans as to conditions in northern China. Southern agitators and propagandists are known to have been "boring from within" for some time in preparation for the northward march of the Cantonese. North China is in a state of ferment, according to consular advices.

Other unofficial reports received here today from Peking claimed that Marshal Chang Tso Lin has announced a victory against the southern troops and the capture of Yen Cheng by his troops.

"At Hankow, following a quarrel between a Japanese sailor and a Rickshaw coolie a mob of Chinese coolies invaded the Japanese concession, loot-

CHICAGO FEARS RACE RIOT

CITY DIVIDED AS CAMPAIGN CLOSE NEARS

Troops Ordered Held Ready by Officials as Situation Grows Dangerous

POLICE CHIEF PREPARES

Squads of Officers Equipped with Machine Guns To Tour Streets

Chicago, April 4—The last minute scramble for votes in Chicago's "powder-barrel" mayoralty campaign is expected to determine today whether or not the city will be controlled by national guardsmen tomorrow morning when upwards of one million citizens begin to trek to the polls.

The closing day of the campaign, the bitterest in the history of Chicago, finds the city divided against itself on a hair-trigger edge. Officials, cognizant of the dangerous situation, have ordered the troops held ready. The temper of the crowds, as gauged by today's smashing windup, will decide whether the election will be held under a specially devised police patrol or under the menacing rifles of the militia.

Adjt. Gen. Carlos Black and Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, commander of the Thirty-Third Division, are in the city ready to assume command. They held long conferences with Sheriff C. E. Graydon, who requested Gov. Len Small to have the troops available if needed.

Fear Race Riot

A race riot is the greatest fear. The "black belt," with a population estimated at 150,000, is lined up solidly behind William Hale Thompson, Republican, who is opposed by Mayor William E. Dever, Democrat. The police are loyal to Mayor Dever. The national guard is controlled by officers said to favor the Republican cause. Possibility of a clash between police and guardsmen is not being overlooked, it was said.

Governor Small, a Republican, but long at loggerheads with the Thompson faction of the party, came out in a last minute statement for the former mayor.

Senator Charles S. Deneen, who likewise was at odds with the Thompson faction, is now said to be supporting the former mayor. Democratic observers view the last minute support of Governor Small and Senator Deneen as an indication that "Thompson is whipped."

More than one hundred negroes, arrested in the black belt and held incommunicado by the police, were ordered booked or "released immediately" by Judge Oscar Hebel. Harry A. Biossat, who filed a writ of release for the negroes, said they had been arrested "without cause," and charged police, under control of the Democrats, with instituting a "campaign of terrorism."

Sheriff Graydon, from whom the call

DENY REPORT

State Department Ignorant of Mexican Debt Repudiation Move

Washington, Apr. 4—Denial was made by the state department today that it had any knowledge of a move on the part of the Mexican government to repudiate the Lamont-Pani agreement, under which the Calles government has been paying interest to a group of New York banks on Mexico's bonded indebtedness.

A story was published to the effect that the agreement was to be abrogated and that Dwight Morrow, partner of J. P. Morgan, had protested to the state department. Secretary Kellogg said today, however, Morrow had made no protest and he knew nothing about it.

WOMAN SLAIN, HUSBAND DYING AFTER ASSAULT

Cleveland, Apr. 6—Mrs. Bea Oliver, 20, is dead and her husband, Andrew, 25, is reported dying in Charity Hospital as the result of an attack upon the pair by an unknown assailant who used a meat cleaver, according to police.

Two suspects are being held for questioning.

$75,000 BLAZE ROUTS SCORES OF FAMILIES

Hundred Persons Made Homeless; Buildings Desrtoyed at Glen Cove, L. I.

New York, Apr. 4—Scores of families were routed from their homes, 100 persons were made homeless and $75,000 in property went up in smoke early today when a spectacular fire levelled 10 buildings at Glen Cove, Long Island.

One man died of a fractured skull received in a fall downstairs. He is Anthony Tievich, proprietor of a poultry store. He was found unconscious in his store by firemen making a search of the debris.

Many of the wealthy residents of this section aided the regular fire department and volunteers in preventing the spread of the blaze to two large hotels.

The buildings razed were all of the two-story type, with stores on the main floor and residences one flight up.

More than 20 persons were helped down ladders by firemen.

DEATH SENTENCE

Passed On Akron Slayer, To Die on July 15

Akron, Apr. 4—John Sabo, 19, convicted of shooting Barton C. Painter to death May 26, 1926, was sentenced to die in the electric chair next July 15 by Judge L. S. Pardee here today. Judge Pardee had previously overruled a motion for a new trial.

Evidence introduced during Sabo's trial showed that he had evidently mistaken Painter for Bob Gruich, an alleged enemy. Defense counsel say they will file an appeal.

SAPIRO'S FEES HALF-MILLION, COURT LEARNS

Henry Ford Will Probably Be Summoned as Witness This Week

Federal Building, Detroit, Apr. 4—The gross fees collected by Aaron Sapiro in his national drive for farmers cooperatives, neared the half million dollar mark today as new details of his sensational career were given the jury at the Ford-Sapiro libel suit in the federal court here.

Under searching cross-examination by Senator James A. Reed, chief of Henry Ford's counsel, Sapiro told of his activities among cotton growers throughout the south. His total revealed fees leaped skyward when he told of getting $64,950 in five years from the American Cotton growers exchange and revealed his present salary from the exchange is at the rate of $21,000 a year. These fees brought Sapiro's gross revealed income from cotton growers all over the nation to $149,505 and his gross fees from all sources to nearly $500,000 in the last 10 years.

Sapiro previously admitted his net income was $400,000 for this period. As yet but a little more than half his cooperative activities have been touched upon at the trial.

To Call Ford

The plan to call Ford this week was announced after friends of the motor king declared he was insisting upon taking the witness stand, injuries or no injuries.

Ford was reported as saying he would appear when called even if he had to be carried in on a stretcher.

"I shall call Mr. Ford as soon as Mr. Sapiro leaves the witness stand," said Gallagher. "If he does not appear, I may ask for a physical examination on behalf of the court. That will depend on what report is made when we are ready for him. Of course we have no intention to pick upon a sick man but there have been so many conflicting reports, we will want to know what is the truth."

Brother Joins Counsel

Milton Sapiro, brother of Aaron and a San Francisco attorney, joined the wheat king's counsel today. He was admitted to special practice in the federal court here for the duration of the trial.

An extraordinary legal question was raised in suit today by the possibility of a strike on the part of federal court jury for its pay from Uncle Sam.

Facing weeks of service without much hope of being paid, there was a possibility that the verdict might be withheld indefinitely by the refusal of

Extent of Mine Strike Is Being Checked By Leaders of Miners and Operators

Today First Day Full Effect of Layoff Is Felt Throughout Central Field; Ohio Mines Are Idle, Is Claim of Lee Hall, President of Ohio Union Miners

Chicago, Apr. 4—The full extent of the suspension of soft coal mining in the unionized central competitive field was expected to be revealed today.

Since midnight, March 31, a succession of holidays and half holidays has prevented both United Mine Workers' officials and the operators from determining the scope of the tie-up.

Miners were counting heavily upon the offer of John L. Lewis, their president to permit the operation of all mines which would pay the Jacksonville wage scale pending the drafting of a new contract to drive a wedge between operators organizations in western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

The operators claim acceptances of Lewis' offer have been few and far between. They say that today will reveal only a scattering of the smaller mines in operation under the Jacksonville scale.

Approximately 150,000 union workers were affected by the suspension in the central field and an estimated 50,000 in adjacent states were said to have also walked out.

OHIO MINE LEADER ISSUES STATEMENT

Columbus, Apr. 4—There are less than a thousand coal miners working in Ohio, it was declared here today by Lee Hall, president of district No. 6, United Mine Workers, who left their labors April 1.

"There were but 1,100 miners working in open shop mines April 1, at the expiration of the Jacksonville agreement," Hall said, "and I personally saw three non-union mines attempt to operate last Friday and Saturday in the vicinity of Bellaire, and know that these mines failed to load one gondola before noon."

STATE POLICE DISPERSE PICKETS

Pittsburgh, Apr. 4—A clash between Pennsylvania State Police and a crowd of union miners' sympathizers at Gallatin, near here, today ushered in a week that is expected to witness important developments in the bituminous suspension in this region.

The Pittsburgh Coal Company's Gallatin mine, operated on the open shop plan, was the scene of the clash. State police met a force of 350 men forming picket lines in the vicinity of the mine and ordered them to disperse.

MILLIONAIRES

American Group Growing Fast, Income Tax Report Shows

Washington, Apr. 4—American millionaires are on the increase, according to an analysis of 1925 income tax figures just completed by the treasury.

There were only 71 and 75 persons in the United States that paid income taxes on incomes in excess of $1,000,000 during 1923 and 1924, but in 1925 the number jumped sensationally to 207, and there were seven who paid on incomes of more than $5,000,000.

The returns showed that less than one percent of the country pair 95 per cent of the total income tax.

LEGISLATURE FACES RUSH IN FINAL WEEKS

Full Calendar Drawn Up for House and Senate; Recess To Be Taken April 16

Columbus, Apr. 4—In anticipation of the recess of the Ohio Legislature, beginning Apr. 15, or 16, senate and house leaders are preparing heavy calendars to be disposed of during the next two weeks.

Besides the biennial general appropriations bill, appropriating approximately $51,049,245 of state funds to meet the cost of state governmental operations during the 18 months' period beginning July 1, next, the legislators are to enact into law, or defeat, scores of important, and relatively minor, measures.

The senate and house will reconvene at 7 o'clock tonight.

Today's calendars provide for only two special orders, both in the house. The house members have arranged to vote Wednesday afternoon on the question of passing the Sullivan bill, increasing the state gasoline tax from two to three cents per gallon, and the Norton bill, revising and recodifying the state highway laws.

To Increase Gas Tax

The Sullivan bill decrees that the additional gasoline tax, estimated to yield about $7,000,000 annually, shall all be used for constructing and reconstructing highways and for abolishing railroad grade crossings. The Norton bill relieves counties and townships from all assessments for state road construction.

House members are expected to vote tonight on the question of passing the Jones bill, introduced last Friday, authorizing boards of education to borrow money in anticipation of funds to be received from the state educational equalization fund, through issuance of notes which the state teachers' retirement system board would be authorized to purchase. An emergency clause is attached to the bill.

THREE MEN ARRESTED IN RAIDS ARE RELEASED

State Prohibition Worker Fails To Appear To Prosecute Cases

Charges filed against three of the six men arrested in liquor raids at West Side business places last week, were dismissed by Municipal Judge Martin, yesterday afternoon, when F. C. Tracey, the state prohibition officer who directed the raids, failed to appear to prosecute the cases.

The three released were Therf Bartis, 37, employed at the Lincoln Hotel, 161 W. Center st; Sam Farruggio, 52, proprietor of a fruit store at 456 W. Center st, and Joe Frank, proprietor of the West Side Grocery, 689 Hocking st.

Bartis and Farruggio had pleaded not guilty to possession, and Frank not guilty to selling. Farruggio had previously entered a plea of guilty to selling and paid a fine of $700, while Frank at his first arraignment pleaded guilty to possession and paid a $300 fine. Farruggio was made to pay a heavier penalty because the record showed that this was his second arrest on liquor violation charges.

Yesterday's proceedings wound up all of the cases resulting from last week's raids with one exception. James Ingles, proprietor of the Lincoln Hotel, faces a charge of selling but is ill and the date for his arraignment cannot be fixed.

A total of $1,100 has been collected in fines thus far. This amount consists of payments by Farruggio and Frank and $100 by Louis Pellegrini, who was used as a decoy by the state officer conducting the raids.

NEGRO HELD ON CHARGE OF DESTROYING TREES

Complainant Says Man Cut Timber He Refused To Sell Him

Alleged destruction of 20 trees on the farm of D. L. Metz, west of Meeker, resulted in the arrest, early this morning, of Frank Wingo, 52, negro, residing at Alger, who is held at the city prison awaiting hearing in Municipal Court.

Metz asserts that after he refused to sell the trees to Wingo recently, the latter went to the farm and cut 20 of them down, evidently with the intent of hauling away the timber for his own use. Metz says that he was in Marion and was notified of Wingo's activities just in time to go to the farm and prevent removal of the trees.

Wingo is a lumber broker and had planned to sell the trees for use in making railway ties, it is claimed. He resided near Meeker prior to moving to Alger.

The affidavit filed against Wingo, charging him with malicious destruction of property, estimates the value of the trees at $50.

Picture of Joseph Isler Shown in Connection with Poultry Article

A photograph of Joseph Isler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Isler of Prospect, appears in the April issue of the National Geographic magazine.

The picture shows the boy, then seven years old, emerging from beneath a barn with a straw hat full of eggs, evidently found in a hidden nest under the building. It is one of a series of photos arranged for by S. B. Stowe, when he was county farm agent in this county. The picture was taken at that time in connection with an artile telling of the poultry business in the county.

The photo is used in the National Geographic this month in connection with a story entitled "Our Debt to the Hen," telling of the value of poultry.

The picture was taken several years ago at Prospect.

Y. M. C. A. in Poland For Success, Deserve!
Mussolini on Beards
$25 Food Bill

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

AMERICANS desiring to be of use in the world might begin at home, and end there. Men and women, rich, well meaning, no doubt spent large sums building up the Y. M. C. A. in Poland, a more than 95 per cent Catholic country.

New Cardinal Kakowski, archbishop of Warsaw, speaking, as he tells Polish Catholics, with the Pope's authority, warns all Catholics against the Y. M. C. A. as a "Protestant-controlled medical organization."

* * *

POLISH Catholic parents are asked to discontinue all support from that organization and not allow their children to join it, or share its activities.

The cardinal's warning reads in part: "I warn the Christian population under my leadership against the evil influences of the Y. M. C. A. on Catholic youths. I base my warning on the Pope's decree, dated November 2, 1920. The Y. M. C. A. is neither Polish nor Catholic. It is supported by Protestants and heretics, and any one who gives a cent to this institution is harming the church and Polish youth."

* * *

IT is said the Y. M. C. A. in Poland must disappear before the cardinal's attack. It would be wise for good American Protestants to realize that our attempts to force religious views on others are as unpopular as bolshevik effort to spread Communist doctrine here.

People like to do their own national thinking and believing.

* * *

IF you want success, outside of politics, DESERVE IT. California, like the forty-seven other states, wants to be popular and have many visitors. Her "All-year Club" advertises the state abroad, and California, having already the finest roads in the world, will spend $75,000,000 on MORE good roads this year.

* * *

* * *

MUSSOLINI tells Adolph Kinast, Swiss newspaperman, many things that show confidence in Mussolini and plans that Providence has made for him.

"Destiny has appointed me as the man to purify the soul of Italy," says Italy's ruler. He is about to have Parliament pass a set of laws, saying, "Every paragraph of these laws shall be obeyed."

* * *

ITALY is to be made pure, and beards, among other things, are to be abolished. Mussolini calls them "Masks for solemn humbugs and nests for disease germs.

* * *

ALEXANDER the Great shaved his face and made his soldiers do it, that the enemy, fighting with the short sword, might not seize the beard as a handle to help in cutting off the head. Mussolini objects to beards as nests for germs, another and worse "enemy." Mussolini says he refuses to be assassinated, will live to 90 and then retire, leaving instructions for Italy's guidance.

Italians believe him, and no wonder! He believes in himself.

* * *

WE call ours a democratic government and Mussolini's an autocratic government. Mussolini drives young aristocrats out of the dipolmatic service, saying he wants young men that have proved their ability.

We are encouraging so-called "career men" in our diplomacy, which means young gentlemen whose fathers can afford to keep their boys well supplied with money at foreign courts, and send them abroad knowing "how to enter a drawing room." Lincoln would find it hard to qualify as a career man in the diplomatic service.

MRS. ESTER MEIDEL, Norwegian housewife, shows how to feed a family of four well on $25 a month. You will soon be able to buy her book, translated.

More important in America, however, is our system of increasing wages, that makes it unnecessary to save the bread crumbs for puddings and limit to 12,000 calories daily a family of four.

"As many calories as I want and some margin for extravagance," is the American demand. And not "How

Bound in Bandages Henry Ford Goes on With Work

DETROIT, Apr. 4 — Although tightly bound in a lacework of surgical bandages, Henry Ford went to work today in the bedroom of his million dollar home at Dearborn.

The motor genius called for a bundle of blue-prints, a half dozen pencils and whiled away the hours of his temporary imprisonment working up designs for a section of the new Ford car which will go upon the market in the not distant future. The auto king plotted and jotted, hopeful that the quiet atmosphere of the sick chamber would bring him flashes of mechanical ingenuity. The blueprints were said to relate to a new type of axle which he intends placing in the new Ford.

The auto king issued one ultimatum over the week-end. He told his physicians that he would not accept the invalid's role which they sought to impose upon him for the next two weeks while he convalesces from injuries sustained a week ago last night when his car was knocked off the boulevard near his estate by a careless or plotting motorist. The billionaire told his medical advisers he intended being back at his factory within a week.

Objects to Cast

The motor czar was particularly annoyed by the surgical splints attached to his back and chest when it was first believed he might have suffered a crushed lung in the accident. The splints forced Ford to lie flat on his back and over the week-end, it was understood, the physicians removed them at his insistence. The physicians sought to place Ford in a plaster cast but the motor king was reported as objecting even to this restriction of movement. Who won the argument was not learned although the auto king did submit to considerable bandaging.

Ford wants to get up and out, not only so he can return to his mechanical laboratory but so he can appear as a witness in the Ford-Sapiro libel suit. The flivver king wants to correct any impression that may have gone out to the American people, as a result of his accident, that he is trying to avoid appearing at the trial.

One of his friends said the motor king would take the witness stand, when summoned by Sapiro's counsel, even if he had to go into the court room on a stretcher. He will not be called, however, until he is completely recovered and his health will not be jeopardized by the courtroom ordeal.

Rapidly Recovering

Ford is rapidly recovering, it was learned, although his medical advisers still are guarding against all complications. The danger of his contracting pneumonia has virtually passed, it was said, because none of the symptoms had appeared in the seven days that intervened since the accident. At first, however, he spat blood, complained of pains in the chest and abdomen and had a high fever. All these symptoms of pneumonia had resulted in his removal to the Henry Ford Hospital, where expert diagnosticians examined him. When it was found that Ford had no broken bones, and the blood disappeared from his sputum, the physicians decided he had only strained his muscles and tendons in his chest and back. This resulted in placing him in splints.

All investigations into the motor crash, which Ford believed was an attempt on his life, have now been dropped.

SITUATION ON UPPER YANGTZE AGAIN SERIOUS

Likely That Powers Will Issue Concerted Protest To Cantonese Government

REPORTS RECEIVED

Chinese Sampans Kept from Gunboat Monacacy with Riot Guns

Open conflict between the Chinese and foreign troops has been renewed, and the situation in the upper Yangtze Valley again appears serious.

American sailors are reported to have fired on Chinese mobs at Chunking and reports received in Shanghai state that the Japanese have been forced to drop shells upon Hankow after serious disorders there, during which there was open fighting between the Japanese and the Chinese.

Mobs of looters and agitators are reported to have clashed with British forces at Shashi.

Americans On Ships

United States Consul Lockhart at Hankow has reported to the legation at Peking that all Americans at Hankow have sought safety aboard American warships following the clash between the Japanese and the Chinese. Peking reports state that 10 Japanese were killed.

The Nationalist armies are now reported to be moving northward making steady advances. Three columns are advancing with Peking as their eventual goal.

Marshal Chang Tso Lin in Peking is reported to have received advices that his troops have administered a defeat to the Nationalists and have captured Yen Cheng.

Shanghai dispatches state that the dismissal of Chiang Kai Shek is again reported from Hankow, but there are no indications that the military leader intends to accept his dismissal and there is every indication of a split within the Nationalist party.

NEGOTIATIONS NEAR ACTION POINT

Washington, Apr. 4—Negotiations between the powers over the critical state of affairs in China have reached a point where it is likely a strong and concerted protest will be made to the Cantonese government this week over the Nanking outrage and other anti-foreign outbreaks.

The action of the powers probably will embrace a demand for reparations, and a sharp warning against further outrages upon foreign lives and property, but, according to all indications here, will fall short of the ultimatum which the British government has been insisting be served upon the Nationalists. An ultimatum carries with it inherently the threat of sanctions and reprisals, and on that point the British and American viewpoints diverged.

Attitude Stiffens

The attitude of the Washington government has been stiffened considerably since Friday by the Davis report. This document, only part of which has been made public contains the conclusions of the American consul at Nanking on the outrage there. It definitely fixes responsibility for the loss of seven foreign lives and the looting of foreign property upon the Nationalist commanders and is so bitterly anti-Cantonese that the state department cannot fail to take cognizance of it.

Admiral Williams' report stated:

"At Chunking, on Apr. 2, it became necessary for an armed guard from the American river gunboat Monacacy, which was on board the American steamer Chinan to use riot guns to keep off Chinese sampans who were determined upon revenge because of unauthorized cargo being removed, due to the fact that it was endangering the ship. Three Chinese were wounded, one probably fatally. A demonstration has been planned for today by agitators in protest against the force used by authorities on Mar. 31. The American consul is on board the Monacacy and is still awaiting a reply from missionaries in the interior.

"British gunboats Mannalus, Widgeon, and Teal arrived at Ichang on Apr. 1 from Chunking. Communistic posters have been placed upon the residences and business places of wealthy Chinese at Ichang. After the arrival of the Monacacy the El Cano, which has been stationed at Ichang during the winter, will withdraw with the Monacacy to Hankow.

No Definite Decision

Secretary of State Kellogg said today no definite decision had been reached concerning the scope of the protest.

Consular reports to the department confirmed the fears expressed by some Americans as to conditions in northern China. Southern agitators and propagandists are known to have been "boring from within" for some time in preparation for the northward march of the Cantonese. North China is in a state of ferment, according to consular advices.

Other unofficial reports received here today from Peking claimed that Marshal Chang Tso Lin has announced a victory against the southern troops and the capture of Yen Cheng by his troops.

CHICAGO FEARS RACE RIOT

CITY DIVIDED AS CAMPAIGN CLOSE NEARS

POLICE CHIEF PREPARES

Chicago, April 4—The last minute scramble for votes in Chicago's "powder-barrel" mayoralty campaign is expected to determine today whether or not the city will be controlled by national guardsmen tomorrow morning when upwards of one million citizens begin to trek to the polls.

The closing day of the campaign, the bitterest in the history of Chicago, finds the city divided against itself on a hair-trigger edge. Officials, cognizant of the dangerous situation, have ordered the troops held ready. The temper of the crowds, as gauged by today's smashing windup, will decide whether the election will be held under a specially devised police patrol or under the menacing rifles of the militia.

Adjt. Gen. Carlos Black and Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, commander of the Thirty-Third Division, are in the city ready to assume command. They held long conferences with Sheriff C. E. Graydon, who requested Gov. Len Small to have the troops available if needed.

Fear Race Riot

A race riot is the greatest fear. The "black belt," with a population estimated at 150,000, is lined up solidly behind William Hale Thompson, Republican, who is opposed by Mayor William E. Dever, Democrat. The police are loyal to Mayor Dever. The national guard is controlled by officers said to favor the Republican cause. Possibility of a clash between police and guardsmen is not being overlooked, it was said.

Governor Small, a Republican, but long at loggerheads with the Thompson faction of the party, came out in a last minute statement for the former mayor.

Senator Charles S. Deneen, who likewise was at odds with the Thompson faction, is now said to be supporting the former mayor. Democratic observers view the last minute support of Governor Small and Senator Deneen as an indication that "Thompson is whipped."

More than one hundred negroes, arrested in the black belt and held incommunicado by the police, were ordered booked or "released immediately" by Judge Oscar Hebel. Harry A. Biossat, who filed a writ of release for the negroes, said they had been arrested "without cause," and charged police, under control of the Democrats, with instituting a "campaign of terrorism."

Sheriff Graydon, from whom the call

DENY REPORT

State Department Ignorant of Mexican Debt Repudiation Move

Washington, Apr. 4—Denial was made by the state department today that it had any knowledge of a move on the part of the Mexican government to repudiate the Lamont-Pani agreement, under which the Calles government has been paying interest to a group of New York banks on Mexico's bonded indebtedness.

A story was published to the effect that the agreement was to be abrogated and that Dwight Morrow, partner of J. P. Morgan, had protested to the state department. Secretary Kellogg said today, however, Morrow had made no protest and he knew nothing about it.

WOMAN SLAIN, HUSBAND DYING AFTER ASSAULT

Cleveland, Apr. 6—Mrs. Bea Oliver, 26, is dead and her husband, Andrew, 25, is reported dying in Charity Hospital as the result of an attack upon the pair by an unknown assailant who used a meat cleaver, according to police.

Two suspects are being held for questioning.

$75,000 BLAZE ROUTS SCORES OF FAMILIES

Hundred Persons Made Homeless; Buildings Desrtoyed at Glen Cove, L. I.

New York, Apr. 4—Scores of families were routed from their homes, 100 persons were made homeless and $75,000 in property went up in smoke early today when a spectacular fire levelled 10 buildings at Glen Cove, Long Island.

One man died of a fractured skull received in a fall downstairs. He is Anthony Tievich, proprietor of a poultry store. He was found unconscious in his store by firemen making a search of the debris.

Many of the wealthy residents of this section aided the regular fire department and volunteers in preventing the spread of the blaze to two large hotels.

The buildings razed were all of the two-story type, with stores on the main floor and residences one flight up.

More than 20 persons were helped down ladders by firemen.

DEATH SENTENCE

Passed On Akron Slayer, To Die on July 15

Akron, Apr. 4—John Sabo, 19, convicted of shooting Barton C. Painter to death May 26, 1926, was sentenced to die in the electric chair next July 15 by Judge L. S. Pardee here today. Judge Pardee had previously overruled a motion for a new trial.

Evidence introduced during Sabo's trial showed that he had evidently mistaken Painter for Bob Grnich, an alleged enemy. Defense counsel say they will file an appeal.

SAPIRO'S FEES HALF-MILLION, COURT LEARNS

Henry Ford Will Probably Be Summoned as Witness This Week

Federal Building, Detroit, Apr. 4—The gross fees collected by Aaron Sapiro in his national drive for farmers cooperatives, neared the half million dollar mark today as new details of his sensational career were given the jury at the Ford-Sapiro libel suit in the federal court here.

Under searching cross-examination by Senator James A. Reed, chief of Henry Ford's counsel, Sapiro told of his activities among cotton growers throughout the south. His total revealed fees leaped skyward when he told of getting $64,950 in five years from the American Cotton growers exchange and revealed his present salary from the exchange is at the rate of $21,000 a year. These fees brought Sapiro's gross revealed income from cotton growers all over the nation to $140,505 and his gross fees from all sources to nearly $500,000 in the last 10 years.

Sapiro previously admitted his net income was $400,000 for this period. As yet but a little more than half his cooperative activities have been touched upon at the trial.

To Call Ford

The plan to call Ford this week was announced after friends of the motor king declared he was insisting upon taking the witness stand, injuries or no injuries.

Ford was reported as saying he would appear when called even if he had to be carried in on a stretcher.

"I shall call Mr. Ford as soon as Mr. Sapiro leaves the witness stand," said Gallagher. "If he does not appear, I may ask for a physical examination on behalf of the court. That will depend on what report is made when we are ready for him. Of course we have no intention to pick upon a sick man but there have been so many conflicting reports, we will want to know what is the truth."

Brother Joins Counsel

Milton Sapiro, brother of Aaron and a San Francisco attorney, joined the wheat king's counsel today. He was admitted to special practice in the federal court here for the duration of the trial.

An extraordinary legal question was raised in suit today by the possibility of a strike on the part of federal court jury for its pay from Uncle Sam.

Facing weeks of service without much hope of being paid, there was a possibility that the verdict might be withheld indefinitely by the refusal of

NEW SERIAL STORY FOR STAR BOYS AND GIRLS

MRS FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

THE MARION STAR has another treat for its juvenile readers—a serial story which will appear daily on the comic page. It is "Peter's Adventures," by Florence Smith Vincent, and will begin in Tuesday's issue of The Star.

The Star is bringing "Peter's Adventure" to its juvenile readers with the belief that this serial story will have an appeal and interest that no other juvenile feature in The Star has ever had.

Combined with the seriousness of these stories is a delicious and quaint humor.

Mrs. Vincent has been writing children's stories for many years and the syndicate which offers her stories reports that they have been one its most popular features.

Be sure to have the children start "Peter's Adventures" in Tuesday's issue of The Star.

Extent of Mine Strike Is Being Checked By Leaders of Miners and Operators

Today First Day Full Effect of Layoff Is Felt Throughout Central Field; Ohio Mines Are Idle, Is Claim of Lee Hall, President of Ohio Union Miners

Chicago, Apr. 4—The full extent of the suspension of soft coal mining in the unionized central competitive field was expected to be revealed today.

Since midnight, March 31, a succession of holidays and half holidays has prevented both United Mine Workers' officials and the operators from determining the scope of the tie-up.

Miners were counting heavily upon the offer of John L. Lewis, their president to permit the operation of all mines which would pay the Jacksonville wage scale pending the drafting of a new contract to drive a wedge between operators organizations in western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

The operators claim acceptances of Lewis' offer have been few and far between. They say that today will reveal only a scattering of the smaller mines in operation under the Jacksonville scale.

Approximately 150,000 union workers were affected by the suspension in the central field and an estimated 50,000 in adjacent states were said to have also walked out.

OHIO MINE LEADER ISSUES STATEMENT

Columbus, Apr. 4—"There are less than a thousand coal miners working in Ohio, it was declared here today by Lee Hall, president of district NA, 6, United Mine Workers, who left their labors April 1.

"There were but 1,100 miners working in open shop mines April 1, at the expiration of the Jacksonville agreement," Hall said, "and I personally saw three non-union mines attempt to operate last Friday and Saturday in the vicinity of Bellaire, and know that these mines failed to load one gondola before noon."

STATE POLICE DISPERSE PICKETS

Pittsburgh, Apr. 4—A clash between Pennsylvania State Police and a crowd of union miners' sympathizers at Gallatin, near here, today ushered in a week that is expected to witness important developments in the bituminous suspension in this region.

The Pittsburgh Coal Company's Gallatin mine, operated on the open shop plan, was the scene of the clash. State police met a force of 350 men forming picket lines in the vicinity of the mine and ordered them to disperse.

MILLIONAIRES

American Group Growing Fast, Income Tax Report Shows

Washington, Apr. 4—American millionaires are on the increase, according to an analysis of 1925 income tax figures just completed by the treasury.

There were only 71 and 75 persons in the United States that paid income taxes on incomes in excess of $1,000,000 during 1923 and 1924, but in 1925 the number jumped sensationally to 207, and there were seven who paid on incomes of more than $5,000,000.

The returns showed that less than one percent of the country pair 95 per cent of the total income tax.

LEGISLATURE FACES RUSH IN FINAL WEEKS

Full Calendar Drawn Up for House and Senate; Recess To Be Taken April 16

Columbus, Apr. 4—In anticipation of the recess of the Ohio Legislature, beginning Apr. 15, or 16, senate and house leaders are preparing heavy calendars to be disposed of during the next two weeks.

Besides the biennial general appropriations bill, appropriating approximately $51,049,245 of state funds to meet the cost of state governmental operations during the 18 months' period beginning July 1, next, the legislators are to enact into laws, or defeat, scores of important, and relatively minor, measures.

The senate and house will reconvene at 7 o'clock tonight.

Today's calendars provide for only two special orders both in the house. The house members have arranged to vote Wednesday afternoon on the question of passing the Sullivan bill, increasing the state gasoline tax from two to three cents per gallon, and the Norton bill, revising and recodifying the state highway laws.

To Increase Gas Tax

The Sullivan bill decrees that the additional gasoline tax, estimated to yield about $7,000,000 annually, shall all be used for constructing and reconstructing highways and for abolishing railroad grade crossings. The Norton bill relieves counties and townships from all assessments for state road construction.

House members are expected to vote tonight on the question of passing the Jones bill, introduced last Friday, authorizing boards of education to borrow money in anticipation of funds to be received from the state educational equalization fund, through issuance of notes which the state teachers' retirement system board would be authorized to purchase. An emergency clause is attached to the bill.

RESPOND TO CALL

Evangelist Urges His Hearers To Give Up Dancing, Cards

More than 40 young people and large numbers of adults responded to the call to "enter Christianity as a life work" issued by Rev. Myron E. Taylor, the evangelist in charge of revival services at Epworth M. E. Church, at the service there yesterday morning. There was an unusually large attendance.

"The Two Kingdoms," or "Popular Amusements," was the subject of Reverend Taylor's sermon at last night's service in which he denounced dancing and cards, urging his hearers "to cleanse themselves of such sin forever." This was said to be the crowning sermon of the campaign and the church was filled to capacity.

The music, which was in charge of Gilbert W. Otteson, assistant to Reverend Taylor, was a feature of each service. A concert by the church orchestra was heard at last night's service.

There will be no services tonight but the revival will continue with a service Tuesday night at which time the evangelist will preach on the subject, "Somebody Knocking."

HIJACKING LEADS TO LIQUOR WAR KILLING

Man's Bullet-Riddled Body Found on Cincinnati's River Front

Cincinnati, Apr. 4 — Hijacking of Detroit-to-Louisville liquor cargoes by Cincinnati bootleggers, in violation of a "gentleman's agreement" between the Michigan and Southern Ohio gangs, has fanned the flame of competition between the two factions into a murderous fire, local police believed today.

Cincinnati police learned of the extensive warfare existing between the two rings after questioning nearly 100 suspected bootleggers last night and early today in connection with the murder of Harry Sollick, 38, who recently came here from Coral Gables, Fla.

Sollick's bullet-riddled body was found late Saturday night in the "river belt"—that section of downtown Cincinnati which borders on the Ohio River.

Because of the similarity of the Sollick killing and two other recent murders here, police questioned scores of known and suspected liquor venders, learning of the broken pact. Several persons were being held for further questioning today.

AVOID DIZZY SPELLS

Never well. Always tired and fagged out. Beauty tossed away by neglect. To be beautiful and to keep youth the system must be free from poisonous backwash of constipation which often causes dizzy spells. For 20 years, Dr. F. M. Edwards gave his patients, in place of calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Known by their olive color. They free the system of poisons that ravage health, energy, beauty.

You need never have sallow complexion, dull eyes, coated tongue, throbbing headaches—all signs that your bowels are clogged, liver is torpid. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. They act smoothly and without griping. How much better you'll feel and look! Everywhere wise men and women who know the value of good health take Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets. Farm States Still Control Congress as Apportioned

Nevada's 77,407 Persons Get as Much as 439,013 Ohioans in Four Counties

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Apr. 4—If Nevada's 77,407 inhabitants are entitled to a congressman what should be the congressional representation of the 439,013 inhabitants of Lorain, Medina, Portage and Summit Counties, in Ohio?

Oh, those 439,013 Ohioans are entitled to a congressman, too.

What. Only one?

Yep, only one.

Right. Go to the head of the class.

And Detroit, with 993,767 inhabitants? (Detroit may kick on this low estimate, but that's the way the Congressional Directory sets her down.) How many congressmen does Detroit rate?

Two, and no more.

* * *

IF New York state, like Nevada, had one congressman per each 77,407 inhabitants New York state would have 144 congressmen, whereas she has only 43 and no 100 at all.

Why is this thus?

And why has Illinois only one congressman for each 260,000 inhabitants, as against South Dakota's one for each 212,000?

Also, why has California with a population (these are 1920 census figures) of 3,426,861, only 11 congressmen, compared with 16 for Missouri, whose population is 3,040,055?

* * *

YOU can go up and down the list of states from top to bottom, and clear through, you'll find this peculiarity.

Whereas the farm states are represented in congress to beat the band, the city states appear to have been awarded the only cote, and while this wasn't quite a case where there absolutely wasn't no cote whatever, there wasn't enough of it left for any of 'em to get indigestion on.

Not to indulge in too many figures of speech, and utilizing another "wherevas": One vote's a vote, for a country congressman, all the way from 1.5 vote up to four or five votes are necessary to count as a vote for a city congressman.

* * *

THE explanation is that this used to be predominantly a rural country, but now it's predominantly urban. Once the country states had the bulk of the representation justly coming to 'em. Today it's the other way about.

Only we continue to elect our congressmen on the old rural basis.

The congressional districts are supposed to be all stirred together every 10 years and up up fresh (they call it "reapportionment") to keep representation fair and up-to-date.

This time, however, instead of 10, it hasn't been done in going on 17 years.

* * *

WHY the delay?

Well, the 1910 reapportionment suited the farm congressmen. They still had their majority then. In the meantime the country's turned urban. If we reapportioned now, the farm crowd would go out of power and the city slickers would come in. So the farm congressmen just won't reapportion. That's all. They're in, and bound to stay in, and it looks as if it would take an earthquake to pry 'em loose.

The city gang are working their heads off to gather the raw materials for said earthquake before the next congress meets but the prospects aren't very bright.

* * *

THE senate's worse than the house of representatives.

Did you know that the senators from 25 farm states, with 20,985,175 total population, can outvote the senators from the other 23 states, with a total population of 84,330,577, largely city folks?

Well, they can.

No reapportionment can touch the senate, either—only a constitutional amendment, which is next to impossible.

Is it any wonder city guys get the ha ha in Washington?

HALF OF CITY'S UNPAVED STREETS ARE GRADED

Work To Be Continued This Week; Sewers, Thoroughfares Being Repaired

Favored last week with agreeable weather, workmen under William Hooker, street foreman, graded approximately half of the city's 86 miles of unpaved streets, placing them in condition for travel. The remaining unimproved streets will be graded this week, according to plans outlined today by City Service Director O. A. Benedict.

When these unimproved thoroughfares have dried sufficiently they will be gone over again, it was announced.

More than 20 men in the service department are busy throughout the city cleaning streets, catch basins and repairing sewers. Several street repair projects also are under way. Within a short time the service department will start its work of cutting back street corners, carrying out a program established by Director Benedict.

POLICE CAPTURE NEGRO AFTER STATION BATTLE

Man Crazed by Liquor Runs Amuck Following Brawl in Poolroom

Crazed by bad liquor and a hefty blow over the left eye in a poolroom brawl, Johnson Jones, 30, colored Erie transfer worker, ran amuck on W. Center-st Saturday night and had mowed his way through a crowd in Union Station with flailing fists before police arrived.

To the half-closed eye Jones added an assortment of facial wounds when he challenged several men at the station to battle. The blow over the left optic, police say, was delivered by an unidentified adversary in the poolroom brawl.

Women in the waiting room at Union Station were thrown into a panic when the burly negro talking loudly staggered into the station looking for trouble. After getting the worst of several fistic encounters in the station Jones started east on Center.

Shortly after he left the station Erie Police Captain Tabler happened on the scene and started after the man. By the time he reached him near the corner of Center and Leader-sts, the colored man was all but knocked out, having staged several losing battles with pedestrians.

Arraigned in Municipal Court this morning on charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct Jones bore the marks of his Saturday escapade. He entered a plea of guilty and was fined $25 and costs. He was unable to settle and was remanded to city prison.

Those arraigned this morning were Johnson Jones, 30, colored, fined $25 and costs; Tom Williams, 35, of 1029 W. Center-st, fined $10 and costs; Bill Mohler, 45, city, fined $10 and costs and John Winslow, $10 and costs.

Thomas Nash, 21, of 398 N. State-st, arrested Saturday afternoon on charges of intoxication on the complaint of the Bindley Grocery Co., put up $20 for his appearance in court today.

ing shops and attacking Japanese on the streets. Japanese sailors who were landed from a gunboat were compelled to open fire with machine guns, wounding a few Chinese but eventually dispersing the mob. The sailors remained ashore, guarding the concession. Trouble is expected to develop from this incident.

"Dr. Taylor and family, who previously had been reported as being unwilling to leave, have left Hankow for Shanghai. There are no foreigners now remaining in Nanking, except three Danish priests.

"At Cheinkiang southern troops are crossing to the north bank of the Yangtze river. The looting of foreign houses continues.

"At Nanking, the Cantonese are reported engaged in mounting a large gun either 10 or 12 inch on Lion Hill."

Celebration at Canton

In a second dispatch dated Apr. 4, Admiral Williams reported that the commander of the South China Patrol, Capt. J. M. Enochs, of the U. S. S. Helena, now at Canton, has reported that Chinese are planning a celebration today over the Nanking and Shanghai victories, with the result that general uneasiness is prevailing. Both the Japanese and British have issued instructions to their citizens who live in the outer districts of Canton to congregate on Shameen. Americans and other foreigners are also standing by to assemble at the same place.

"Every possible assurance has been given by the local Nationalists commanding general, as well as by the acting minister for foreign affairs, that all foreign homes and places of business will be given every protection. From an American who is supposed to be high in the confidence of high Nationalist officials comes assurance that no trouble should be feared.

"The destroyer Pillsbury which is now at Tsing-Tao has reported the city is quiet and that there is activitity due to the arrival from the interior of American missionaries.

Jap Fleet at Amoy

"The Japanese fleet will sail for Chefoo on Apr. 4. This fleet was last reported at Amoy.

"The American consul at Tsinan has reported considerable agitation against foreigners has appeared at that place and that grave consequences are to be feared if the Chantung troops are defeated at Hsu-Chowsu. All Americans in the vicinity of Tsinan are making plans to evacuate to Tsing-Tao.

"Rear Admiral Hough, commanding the Yangtze patrol, is arranging to convoy all the ships coming down the Yangtze River from Hanow and is arranging the evacuation of all American citizens from the Yangtze River district."

5,000 BRITISH ORDERED TO PEKING

London, Apr. 4—British reinforcements, consisting of 5,000 men, which have been ordered to China are destined to become the nucleus of a Peking defense force, the International News Service learned today.

Although government spokesmen state that these reinforcements are a "fluid reserve" to be placed at the disposal of General Duncan, it is learned that their destination is Peking and that they will be followed by further detachments, the cabinet believing that Peking must have protection for British residents and property.

JAPANESE FLEE FROM HANKOW

Shanghai, Apr. 4—Although the situation in Hankow is still critical, the International News Service learned tonight that unconfirmed reports that the Japanese have bombarded the city are erroneous.

The reports of a Japanese bombardment received here earlier in the day caused great excitement. Inquiries directed to Hankow brought word that there has been no bombardment.

Japanese residents of Hankow have fled from the city, following mob attacks upon the Japanese concession, according to information received here today.

Evacuation Complete

Evacuation was virtually completed at 8 o'clock Sunday night when the steamers Tafu Maru, Wuling Maru, Taheng Maru and Mitsuki Maru left for Shanghai carrying the refugees.

The flight was the result of attacks against Japanese blue jackets and civilians in the Japanese concession and an assault by Nationalist soldiers with rifles against Japanese troops from the Eighth Army who had been sent to protect the concession borders.

The fate of five Japanese bluejackets and five civilians who were carried off when a landing party from a Japanese warship drove out menacing mobs from the Japanese concession at Hankow is not yet known.

One bluejacket is reported to have been drowned following his capture.

INDEFINITE SUSPENSION IN OHIO MINING SEEN

Tentative Plans For Joint Conference of Operators and Miners Collapse

Columbus, Apr. 4—An indefinite suspension of work in the Ohio soft coal mine fields was seen here today, as a result of the apparent collapse of tentative plans for a joint conference of representatives of miners and operators to discuss a settlement of wage scale differences.

Hopes for a possible settlement, based upon the verbal statement last week of Lee Hall, president of District 6, United Mine Workers, that the miners would accept an invitation from the operators for a joint conference to be held in Columbus Tuesday, were dashed when Hall withdrew the acceptance late Saturday night. His action followed his return to his home from a tour of the mine districts. He declared the miners could not accept the operators' offer, if the latter insisted in wording the call for the conference so as to include a downward revision of the Jacksonville wage scale as its purpose.

The operators, in dispatches from Cleveland, insisted that a conference for any other purpose than to discuss a wage reduction would be "useless," and the conference, to all intents today was virtually abandoned.

DR. A. M. CRANE FIGURES IN STREET CORNER CRASH

Escapes Injury When Car Hits Auto and Breaks Telephone Pole

Two cars were damaged, two lawns were cut up, a telephone pole broken off and telephone service interrupted Saturday night when a car driven by Dr. A. M. Crane, Girard-av, figured in an accident at the corner of Bellefontaine and Girard-avs.

Dr. Crane's car driven west on Bellefontaine-av first crashed into the rear of a Nash sedan of Harry Ackerman, Bellefontaine-av, parked in front of the Ackerman home. After striking the Ackerman machine the Crane car careened across the lawn at the home of A. A. Van Atta, crossed the street and crashed into a telephone pole at the intersection of Girard and Bellefontaine-avs.

The impact of the heavy car against the pole snapped it off and tore the cable, throwing telephone lines along Girard-av out of service.

Dr. Crane, slightly bruised and cut up in the accident, was arrested shortly after the mishap on charges of reckless driving.

The Crane car was badly damaged and the rear end of the Ackerman machines was wrecked.

FERDINAND'S CONDITION TAKES TURN FOR WORSE

Heart Shows Signs of Overstrain; Difficult to Take Nourishment

Vienna, April 4—King Ferdinand's condition has taken a turn for the worse, according to Bucharest dispatches received this afternoon. These reports state that the king's fever has risen and that his heart is showing signs of over-strain and that his intestinal trouble is becoming acute, making it difficult for him to take nourishment.

Fears of trouble if the king should die are increased by resentment to Premier Averescu's reported statement that he would establish a dictatorship, it is reported.

Prince Carol has not fled Paris in an airplane as reported in the United States.

"I almost regret that I don't equal the heroic and spectacular personality given me by those who say I am flying to Roumania," Prince Carol said today at his Neuilly residence in Paris.

A BOOK really needed is one that would keep Americans from breaking all world records for time, work and happiness lost though illness.

The United Hospitals' report for New York City alone shows an average of 150,000 ill in bed all the time and 600,000 more made unfit to work by some sickness.

Seventy per cent of that is due to ignorance, at least, and not a little of it to the ignorance of doctors that understand neither diagnosis nor cure, also some that would consider prevention of disease "bad business."

THIS has been a poor year in China for Christians and missionaries but a wonderful year for Bibles. The American Bible Society issued through its agency at Shanghai and subagencies almost 4,000,000 Bibles, testaments and parts of Bibles.

But the distribution seems to have worked like the "best butter" used on his watch by the dormouse at the mad hatter's tea party.

NOTHING will satisfy the Chinese, it seems, but the right to manage their own country and their own affairs. "China for Chinese Now!" seems to be their thought. They will not even accept heaven later as a substitute. Perhaps our ancestors of July 4, 1776, would have felt the same if a substitute had been offered for independence.

Also the Chinese may have read in those New Testaments what Saint James says to the rich exploiters, "Go to, now, ye rich, weep and howl," etc.

USE RADIO IN HOPE OF RENEWING GIRL'S MIND

Suffering from Sleeping Sickness, Child, 9, Awakens with "Month-Old" Brain

Chicago, Apr. 4—Physicians at the Berwyn Hospital, where little 9-year-old Mamie Kuhaga lies awake with the mind of a month-old baby, will today resort to radio music in an effort to rebuild her memory.

Asleep for five weeks, Mamie awoke last Friday with the mind of an infant. Of the objects she was asked to name, Mamie could only recognize a doll. Doctors pronounced her as a victim of sleeping sickness. The radio will be used in an effort to bring her mind back to normal.

Doctors who will conduct the experiment believe the constant beat of music will slowly stir the memory. At intervals during the day the volume of the music will be increased. Music that the child has heard at home will be broadcast from a local station.

This form of treatment was decided upon when the child took a keen interest to a tune her nurse whistled. When asked to name the song the child struggled as though she knew the words but could not utter them.

Should the experiment prove a success a new page will be turned in the treatment for sleeping sickness. It will be the first step science has taken along this line, physicians declared.

for the national guard must issue, would not commit himself as to his intentions, indicating he would await today's developments. Chief of Police Morgan Collins said elaborate preparations have been made to cope with any situation.

Collins said 100 squads of five men each will cruise about in danger zones in automobiles laden with machine guns, rifles and tear bombs. His machine gunners, many of them army veterans, drilled for several hours yesterday on the lake front, firing volleys at targets in the water. His rifle squads comprise the best shots on the force.

There was no let up in the beetle campaign over Sunday and it continued in full blast today. Speakers on both sides, wearied and hoarse, were shouting last minute appeals in rallies over the city. Outside the streets were monopolized by parades, shrieking sirens and brass bands. Handbills fluttered from office windows.

Several clashes occurred that were nipped by police just in time to prevent general rioting.

Mayor Dever Gains

The parades were a succession of floats covered with challenging banners.

"Fight for Dever," read one sightcast streamer.

"America first. Keep the boys out of European trenches. Vote for William Hale Thompson," read another.

A large truck on which army ordnance was mounted and carrying men in army and navy uniforms, displayed a huge banner bearing this:

"No true American can vote for Thompson and look a gold star mother in the face."

Impartial observers agree that Mayor Dever has made substantial gains during the close of the campaign. Thompson contends that he will be elected by 150,000 votes. Even money was being wagered on the result. Betting is light.

The Ohio Utilities News, published up in Cleveland in the interests of the public utilities of the state, tells us that in 1925 the average cost of 1,000 feet of natural gas in Ohio was fifty-six cents. The average cost being fifty-six cents, it looks as though some municipalities must have enjoyed a lower schedule of rates than that of Marion.

Judge Clarence W. Dearth, of Muncie, Indiana, has been acquitted of charges of corruption and other high crimes, but the margin by which he escaped was so small that there should be little occasion for the stretching of his hatband for some time to come.

It is well to have all Ohio cities using the same kind of time, not only for the reason that it avoids confusion, but also because it will no longer call attention to the intellectual measure of that part of our citizenship which, rather than get up an hour earlier, had to have legislation enacted providing for the turning back of the hands of clocks an hour during the summer season to save daylight.

Be Kind to Animals Week.

In our issue of last Saturday we offered upon this page the story of the rescuing from death of a little Pennsylvania boy through the love, fidelity and intelligence of his two dogs, which had followed him when he wandered away from home, and, unable to rescue him when he was sinking in a bed of culm, brought aid to his assistance. Such a story—the story itself, we mean, not the manner in which it was presented—was a fitting prelude to "Be Kind to Animals Week," which began Sunday and will end next Saturday.

If stories of love, and devotion, and intelligence, on the part of animals such as that—and there are such incidents daily although we may not hear of them—do not cause us to be kind to animals, there is something radically wrong in our make-ups. Few, if any, of us who have ever owned a dog or other pet, who have not found in them something to admire, some quality we might well emulate. The scientists may seek to confuse us by telling us animals possess instinct, but lack intelligence. Away with science and the scientists! Any dog lover knows they utter folly.

We have herein referred to one editorial—our own. We herewith give the close of another run in the Cincinnati Enquirer of the same date:

"How can any one be cruel to voiceless, patient, helpless animals? An old horse, shivering, unblanketed, in the icy wind, presents a picture of pathetic misery. Who has not regarded with stirring emotions the picture of a boy and his dog, or of a little maiden cuddling her kitten in her childish arms? Who can measure the faith and devotion of animals which have attached themselves to those whose understanding and affection have won this infinite loyalty? No one but the Creator of all life, which pulsates the same in animals and in man.

"The heart that knows not love for bird and beast is not in tune with the infinite love of the universe. Burns knew this love when he wrote, 'Puir Mallie's Dead,' and his 'Lines to a Field Mouse.'"

Says Battleship Is Doomed.

Rear Admiral William S. Sims has exploded another bomb, on this occasion, in the controversy which has been in progress for a number of years regarding the effectiveness of the battleship as a war machine. Possibly, had the bomb been exploded by some other officer of equal rank and experience, it would have attracted more attention and carried more weight. We do not mean by this that the admiral is not held in high esteem alike as a commander and fighter in naval circles, we do not mean that he is not qualified by education and experience to speak advisedly, we do not mean that he is unduly influenced by prejudice. His entire career from the time he entered the navy till his retirement would stand in refutation of any such assumptions as these. But we do mean that the public is not so much inclined to be moved so much by the utterances of one given to the bomb business as it would be by the views of one without a trend that way, and the admiral has been combing for some time. He might fitly be called the stormy petrel of the navy. Even so, his utterances should carry weight, for his experience as commander of the defense-against-submarine fleet in the Great war qualifies him to speak as few can.

In the opinion of Admiral Sims, the day of the battleship has definitely ended and in another war sea fighting will be done entirely by submarine and aeroplane. "In another war," he said in an interview last week, "the best thing to do with our battleships would be to send them as far as possible up the Mississippi river, out of harm's way, and send out submarines and aircraft to do our fighting.

The battleship, once generally recognized as the backbone of the fleet, the admiral holds to be such no longer. The whole strategy of the seas has changed, he explains. The day of the naval blockade is a thing of the past. Even a minor power could put out against the fleet of a powerful nation such a force of submarines and aircraft as to make the maintaining of a blockade impossible.

"The battleship is no longer an asset," said Admiral Sims. "If we can imagine a gun being invented to shoot a 3,000-pound projectile twenty miles from the deck of the fastest ship and to make a substantial proportion of hits, that will suggest a parallel to what has happened to the battleship. There is no defense against aircraft except aircraft and anti-aircraft guns, and the latter have the greatest difficulty hitting a mark in the air. Even on the western front during the war guns placed on the solid earth are credited with requiring 65,000 shots to one hit against aircraft! And guns carried on the deck of a rolling ship would do still worse. As to the submarine, there is no answer to it. They are building them now of 3,000 tons, capable of carrying enough oil to make a circuit of the world without refueling. They are safe, seaworthy and habitable.

"At the Washington conference, Britain sought to outlaw the submarine. If that had been done her superiority in fighting craft and naval bases would have assured continuance of her naval supremacy. But the other nations would not agree. For them the submarine and aeroplane are the sure and comparatively inexpensive instruments of defense. The development of the submarine has ended the possibility of any one power in future rating as mistress of the sea."

Say what one may of the tendency of Rear Admiral Sims to break into print under very slight provocation, it will have to be admitted that there is force in what he here has said. He knows his subject thoroughly. He knows the weakness of the surface ship and the strength of the undersea vessel and the war engine of the air. And not only has he strong support among the officers of the navy, but he is strongly backed by observers and experts who are outside our fighting forces.

And it is not impossible that the conviction of Admiral Sims is also that of President Coolidge, which would explain the latter's reluctance to enter into an extensive program of naval construction. Mr. Coolidge may feel, as does the admiral, that to build surface war vessels in this day and age would be not only a waste of money and effort, but also and far worse an unnecessary exposure to death of the officers and men who would man them. And may it not also be possible that it was this view which prompted the Harding administration so willing to abandon the ambitious superdreadnaught program which was being carried out and which would soon have given us the greatest fleet of fighting ships extant, which has cause it since to become the subject of much criticism for so doing?

In a word, it is very possible that the present administration and the one preceding it may have followed the course of wisdom in going slow in naval construction of surface vessels, even though they may not have proceeded in the construction of fighting aircraft so rapidly as the exponents of aircraft may have desired.

And speaking of names, for a time we thought that there was something suggestive about the fact that Major Segrave went to Daytona Beach for his attempt to beat 200 miles an hour, but the result shows that the thought was groundless.

Maybe the Lorain woman fined and sentenced to jail for stealing the purse of her companion when the latter was hit by an automobile and killed looked upon her act merely as one of good husbandry.

We would like to be present when Norman Thomas or any other bright, shining light of the union, attempts to bribe Herb. Hoover. It's our guess it would beat any $6.60 show on the boards.

"OH, FOR A LINCOLN!"

Infant Dressing a Health Factor.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Don't cook your baby and make it cry by doing it up in endless wrappings on days when the weather is mild and balmy.

Don't dry up your baby by making it live in a hot, moistureless, stuffy room.

Don't deprive your baby of the fresh air needed in such large quantities if you desire it to thrive and be free from illness.

These are three necessary "don'ts." Do you need to be instructed regarding them? I am sure you do not, but it is well on occasions to warn you of their importance.

The skin of a baby is a delicate, easily irritated tissue. It is quickly responsive to the stimulating or depressing effects of temperature and air. The youngster simply can not thrive if there is neglect of attention to these matters.

Springtime and hot weather will be coming along pretty soon. "Spring fever" will be in the air. The hot, muggy, dead air of the first warm days, will be in marked contrast to the stimulating effects of cold weather. The baby will suffer unless you are thoughtful enough to lessen the weight of clothing on such days.

The calendar can not be trusted. You should consult the thermometer and "look at the weather" before dressing the infant for the regular outings. Select the wrappings accordingly.

Just because a baby is a tiny little thing, don't imagine it can be tucked away in an airless corner. The little thing wants air and must have air. It needn't be exposed to drafts, but it should have unlimited quantities of pure, fresh air.

If the air of the room is too hot, dry and motionless, the secretions of the nose dry up and the protective effect of the nasal moisture is lost. One of the functions of that secretion is to deal with dust and germs. If there is no moisture because of the overheating of the room, this protection is lost.

If the outer garments are too heavy on a hot day, the little body will be bathed in perspiration. This will evaporate, causing chilling of the surfaces. So, even on a hot day, a "cold" will be taken, or the breathing apparatus be more seriously damaged.

You must use unusual care during the first days of spring time. It is a critical season.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

If the power in a gram of matter could be liberated it would be sufficient to lift a half dozen of the biggest buildings in any city off their foundations. So says Dr. Arthur Haas, great scientist from the University of Vienna. We are amazed at the force of steam and electricity but as have barely scratched the surface of power. When we learn to harness and drive the spinning atoms that make up matter, steam power will be like an old horse.

Not long ago we were publishing to the world that there were 18,000,000 motor vehicles in the United States. In 1926 there were 22,000,000 registered. That's 2,000,000 more than the year before. New York has the most; California is next and Ohio is third. This amazes the rest of the world. There is much poverty elsewhere and little here. And yet one wonders if motor cars carry us to happiness any faster than the old horse and buggy.

A Los Angeles banker, making a speech, says youth thinks less of a quarter today than our fathers did of a nickel. He must be a young man or he wouldn't make such a conservative statement. Many of us can remember when a nickel looked bigger to us than a dollar does to youngsters today. Memory goes back to the days when a whole quarter to spend on the Fourth of July looked as big as a dividend check.

An Englishman drives an automobile 200 miles an hour. Then his companion telephones London about it. No wonder the earth whirls around the sun. If it hadn't already started, our modern methods of living would have jarred it loose.

Tailors are right. They say that men, fashionably dressed, will blossom like the flowers this spring. Why not? Why let women have a monopoly on beauty in apparel? Anyway, men need more props to good looks than women do. Give men snappy clothes. They need them.

Twenty Years Ago.

This day was Thursday.

Miss Lillian Katz was home from school at St. Mary's as was also Miss Helen Rosenberg.

Mrs. Mary Brown, a pioneer resident, died at Prospect, aged seventy-five years.

The transfer of the Bell lines to the Marion County Telephone company's boards was undertaken. It was figured that the entire job of making the transfer would take ninety days.

The Star told of the marriage, the evening before, of Miss Clara Mann and Mr. Edward Kunz at the home of the bride's parents on north Main street by Rev. D. H. Bailey.

Word was received that James Powell, a former resident, was arrested in Columbus for attempting to cut his wife's throat with a razor.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

Ministers may have their troubles, with all these smart books being wrote about them, and all that, but it's the ministers' sons that I sympathize with. The ministers' sons have got to put up with all kinds of tales about ministers' sons being no-account and mean and wild, and then they've got to go right ahead being just a little more careful about how they act than any of the other boys, so they won't make their dad sorry he raised 'em.

Well, here's one of the stories they've got to listen to. And I had to listen to it too, the other day.

The minister's son came home a little after 2 o'clock in the morning, and he wasn't so very steady on his pins. His dad was waiting up for him, to give him a good talking to. But the old man seen that the boy wasn't in no shape to be talked reason with, so the dad sot his teeth and says:

"Well, here you are! What makes you act this way? Are you really, as you seem, a child of Satan?"

"Yesh Father," says the dutiful son. "You got it! Goodnight Dad!"—Copyright, 1927.

Some Questions of Interest Asked and Answered.

Q. Why do the following words begin with "k": knot, knee, know, knave? W. W. H.

A. The words about which you have inquired are Anglo-Saxon derivatives. Originally the initial letter was pronounced. As late as Chaucer's day, the word "knight" was pronounced as if spelled "k-nicht."

* * *

Q. Is it true that the Blarney stone is so hard to reach that no one can kiss it? C. N. H.

A. The Blarney stone has been kissed by hundreds, if not thousands, of tourists. The sport of kissing it depends largely upon the fact that it is almost inaccessible.

* * *

Q. Where did speed ball originate? H. L.

A. There are two games played under the name of speed ball. One is played in Maryland and another in Michigan. Speed ball, as played in Michigan, originated with D. Mitchell in charge of intramural sports at the University of Michigan. Speed ball in Maryland originated with the Playground Athletic league as a result of suggestions from Harry P. Clarke, game expert of Winnetka, Illinois.

* * *

Q. Please give a description of mole crickets. R. B.

A. Mole crickets combine the characteristics of the cricket with the habits of a mole. They dig winding burrows in the loose soil on the borders of ponds and ditches, raising ridges like miniature mole hills. In their subterranean wanderings they eat the roots of plants upon which, as well as upon earth worms and larvae, the feed. A Porto Rican species does serious damage to crops. The species occurring in the eastern United States are Gryllotapa borealis and G. longipennis. They may be recognized by their large brown bodies with a velvet-like covering of fine close hair, short wing covers and fossorial front legs, not unlike the paws of a mole. The ear of the mole cricket is situated on the front leg below the knee. Two pairs of wings are found, the small upper wings and lower wings. These crickets are not poisonous.

* * *

Q. To what school was the Duke money given? M. B.

A. The Duke bequest established a trust embracing property having a value of at least $40,000,000, which includes approximately three-fourths of the holdings of the Southern Power system. This trust is to be administered by fifteen trustees who will constitute a self-perpetuating body. The trustees were directed to spend a sum not exceeding $6,000,000 in acquiring land and erecting and equiping a building for the establishment of an institution of learning in South Carolina to be known and operated as the Duke university, with the provision that if Trinity college at Durham, North Carolina, saw fit to change its name to Duke university, such sum might be spent in extending Trinity college.

Q. What color are the aborigines of Austria and New Zealand? A. H.

A. The aborigines of Austria and New Zealand vary from light coffee color to coal black. They have many negro characteristics and are connected with the negro stock.

Who's Who and Why.

MME. SUN YAT SEN.

Mme. Sun Yat Sen is the widow of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, formerly provisional president o China and a leader of the revolution. Her hus band founded the Kuomintang, the Chinese Na tionalist party. Mme. Sun Yat Sen is a mem ber of the central executive council of the Kuomintang, the controlling body which define the policy and directs the government of Na tionalist China. She was among the leaders of the Cantonese forces in their northward march to reestablish the principles as laid down by her husband. Mme. Sun Yat Sen has spent considerable time in the United States, having received her education at Wesleyan college Macon, Georgia. In a message to the women of America she says:

"I doubt if you women of America can grasp the extent of the change in China. In my four years in college, and later in the larger American cities, I came in contact with many women and with the political and social aims of American women. Complete freedom for American women seemed just around the corner; for Chinese women, it seemed a distant, almost a foolish dream.

"But I was wrong. As wrong as were the chains that bound the women of China just a few years ago. They have been broken. Our grandmothers may have been 500 years behind the women of America, but our daughters will be fifty years ahead. Chinese women, under the Kuomintang, are wiping out centuries.

"Yes, it is the Kuomintang that is doing it. The great, inclusive principle of freedom that is driving Chinese nationalism is sweeping every one along with it. Every one is in the current, from the highest to the lowest, men and women, scholars and laborers, old and young. Under the Kuomintang we are being spared the painful path, step by step, out of feudalism."

Dinner Stories.

There was once a fake Texas cowboy who roamed around New York, claiming to be attached to a Wild West show playing Coney Island.

One day while bragging to a crowd of open-mouthed yaps, he bumped into a real cowpuncher, who promptly stood him on his head. After picking himself up and running to a safe distance, he defiantly shook his fist and yelled back:

"You can assault me here in the crowded city, but wait until I get you out on the plains."

"Have you a book called 'Even How'?" a woman asked a library attendant.

"I don't think so," was the reply. "Who wrote it?"

"Let's see. Seems to me it was the same man who wrote 'Emulsion.'"

"'Emulsion?' I see. The author's name perhaps was Scott. We have no book by Sir Walter Scott entitled 'Even How.' Oh, possibly you mean 'Ivanhoe.'"

And it turned out that she did.

STIMULATION GREAT FOR OLD AGE

Quick Way to Renew Vitality

Because it helps to modify the nutritive processes, scientists claim that proper stimulation has a pronounced moderating effect on the breaking down processes in the human body and thus may add ten years to the average life span.

To get real nourishment out of the food you eat is life-giving, and the body-building elements thus created nourish the tissues and strengthen the nerves and vital processes. When there is incomplete nourishment, even though you eat heartily, disintegration of the body sets follows, and we become run-down, thin and undersize.

A remarkable stimulant-tonic has been devised for just such conditions as these. It is delightfully palatable and is prepared by an old Virginia concern in business for nearly a century. Druggists and physicians have come to know this stimulant as "Old Monticello Tonic." Get a bottle today from your druggist, take a small wine-glass full before your next meal—see how much better you eat—feel the glow of stimulated functions throughout the body. A few days' treatment will bring a quick change in run-down conditions and overcome lack of energy.—Adv.

GOOD-WILL is an asset slow to build, but once settled on the solid foundation of public confidence it becomes an incentive to progress and an obligation too great to ignore.

That is why the original idea on which General was founded has become more and more a conviction.

It is the reason there is no temptation great enough, no exigency sufficient to turn this Company from its course, its steadfast policy of never tampering with quality.

It is the reason that in a brief period of ten years General has gained its outstanding position in car-owner preference and quality leadership in the industry. Today, when car owners have a watchful eye on quality, General stands out among tire values—fortified by a known policy and a record of service that has proved its ultimate economy to millions by giving almost unbelievable mileage.

Beauty's Keynote

The Spring Song of fashion this season takes quite for granted the clear, fresh complexion which is the keynote, too, of feminine charm, and which beautiful Miss Winifred Beverly declares any girl can have by using the dainty Black and White Cleansing Cream! This exquisitely textured cream—which you can get from dealers everywhere in the generous 50c and 25c packages—is much lighter than cold cream, melts at a touch, searches the pores for impurities that would cause blackheads and other blemishes, and keeps the skin immaculate, clear-toned and lovely to look at and touch.

Miss Beverly, who lives at Jamaica, Long Island, says: "I've used the wonderful Black and White Cleansing Cream a long time for the nightly and noonday cleansing I consider most necessary for lovely complexion. This soft, melty cream removes every particle of dust and powder, making my skin feel and look refreshed, exquisitely cleaned and silky."

Recipes for New and Novel Dishe; Household Ideas and Suggestions

WHEN one tires of the "joint" of meat, chops and steaks, the scalloped ham and potato dish appeals because while it does not do entirely away with meat in the menu, it is retired to the background, as it were. Canned or dried corn is a good accompaniment with the apple-cranberry salad to give color to the menu.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 88

Mother! It's Cruel to "Physic" Your Child

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even if the child is chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only becomes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

What Has Gone Before

[illegible] home of PROF and MOLLIE ELWELL in Camdenville, [illegible] night in October of 1898, MARTHA DALTON, a [illegible] bearing a woman who had [illegible] on the train on which Martha had been traveling.

Elwell is an artist. He has a son JIM, aged 5. Late that night twin girls are born to the woman, who dies without revealing her name. The Elwells adopt the girls. The story then moves forward [illegible] years. The twins, now growing into beautiful womanhood, have been named MARGARET and ELIZABETH and nicknamed RUSTY and BETTY.

America enters the World War and Jim Elwell enlists. Two nights before he leaves he discovers that one of the twins loves him and he in turn loves her. He tells his mother, but does not tell which one, because he wants her to love both of them the same in the event he does not return.

Two months later he sails for France and is wounded in his first battle.

Now Begin the Story

CHAPTER XV

WHEN Jim woke up an army doctor was dressing the wound on his leg.

"Oh," said the doctor, a young man with a freckled face and a shock of fiery red hair, "so you want to know what it's all about. Well, you got a nice little nick in the shoulder, and a hunk of shrapnel raised a little hob with your leg. You're lucky—lost a lot of blood but you'll get that back."

Jim Elwell grinned. "Did you save the shrapnel? I'd like to keep it as a souvenir."

The doctor laughed. Jim still had the shrapnel, he said. It was still embedded in his leg. "We'll dig it out for you at the hospital."

And so it came to pass that Jim got a nice little rest in a hospital at Vaux.

When he looked around him he realized how lucky he really was. Other men with hideous bandages, about whom the nurses hovered with anxious expressions, and that solemn wheeled table that went back and forth bearing men still as death from operating room.

Jim had what the English called a couple of "blighty wounds." Only, being separated from blighty by the Atlantic instead of the English Channel, he remained at Vaux for convalescence instead of going home.

And back in the little Elwell home in Camdenville the folks got a nice long letter from Jim, telling of his company's and his first big engagement in the war.

Incidentally he mentioned, too, that he had been mussed up a trifle and was recuperating for a while in the hospital. Nothing serious—just a machine gun bullet in the shoulder and a little scratch in the leg. Expected —or hoped, at least—to be back in action inside a month or two.

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" burst from Rusty as Prof Elwell finished reading the letter. "Why couldn't he have been hurt enough to keep him in the hospital until the nasty old war was over? It won't be much longer now till it's over since the Americans have started to fight."

Betty added her quota to Rusty's statement with a vehement and blood curdling utterance.

"I wish he'd got both legs broken!" She paused. "And his trigger finger shot off and a sword cut across his cheek that would leave a nice scar! Then he'd have to be—what do you call it?—invalided back home. That would have been glory enough for me!"

Mollie was shocked. "The way you girls talk!" she exclaimed. "Isn't Jim hurt enough?"

But, the twins argued, they didn't want him to be discharged from the hospital only to go back again and run the risk of being injured all over again and maybe killed.

Nevertheless, when Prof and Mollie had left the girls alone, Rusty and Betty had a good cry over Jim's wounds.

Inasmuch as the twins' viewpoints regarding the fortunes of war already have been explained it will be seen why the information contained in Jim Elwell's next letter, which reached the house on September 10, was digested by Betty and Rusty with some worry but a worry well seasoned with the essence of youthful philosophy:

"Well, he might better be sick with the flu, so long as it doesn't kill him, than to be shot full of cannon balls and blown up by gas bombs. Maybe now we'll get to see him again with all his legs and his head still on!"

For Jim did develop the flu and his hospital discharge was delayed. For a time he was a very sick soldier, but he pulled through the danger zone and, tired and drawn and weak, was told he had nothing to do now but lie still and get well.

A letter received from Jim late in October told the family that he was still in the hospital and getting along fine, but had been told that he wouldn't be discharged, probably, for another month.

Therefore, when the big news of the armistice broke on November 11—the news that almost turned the whole world upside down with thanksgiving—the joy that bubbled from the hearts of Jim Elwell's mother and father and the twins, Betty and Rusty, was a joy that fairly shrieked for expression.

Had not their last letter from Jim informed them that he would not be discharged from the hospital for at least another month? And wasn't the war over now? That meant that Jim was still in the hospital and soon would be on his way home.

So they left the house and went down town where Camdenville was shrieking itself mad and an impromptu parade was marching through the streets, led by the Camdenville brass band that had blared so dolefully on the occasion of Jim's farewell.

That night the Elwells served a special dinner, and a place was reserved for Jim, all decorated up with flags and flowers.

But something had happened back in France in between their last letter and the armistice that they knew nothing about. If it hadn't happened, very likely this story would never have been written.

While they were alternately laughing and crying with thanksgiving, while they were eating their celebration dinner, a soldier back in France—but let us go back to October 23.

On this date two American divisions, the 27th and 30th, with twenty-four British, against thirty-one German divisions, won the Battle of the Selle, which began October 17.

In this battle which, incidentally, was the battle that broke the Hindenburg Line, 20,000 Germans were taken prisoners along with 475 guns.

A few days later Jim Elwell was visited in the hospital by a medical officer who looked him over critically and asked how he was feeling.

"Fine, thanks."

"Feeling strong again?"

"Yes, sir. Feelin' well enough to go back again."

"That fine. I'm going to discharge you."

Jim had made a speedy recovery. The blood was back in his cheeks once more and his legs were strong. His weight was almost back to where it was when he had come in the hospital on a stretcher, and altogether he was fairly happy at leaving the hospital even though it did entail going back to the front once more.

The prospect was not one that he faced with unalloyed joy. He had had one taste of war and knew what to expect. What lay in store for him now he did not know, but after his experience in battle and in the hospital it was fairly easy to picture.

Nevertheless, Jim, although he was not a story book hero, was a man.

Three days later he went back to the front. He found Pershing's First Army beginning its rush to Sedan and Montmedy. He found, also, that one of his new company mates, John Powell of Newark, New Jersey, looked enough like him to cause the men to call them twins.

Jim himself acknowledged that the likeness was almost perfect. Powell looked enough like him to be his own brother.

"In which event," Powell said, for he was a new man and a little nervous and looking for sometime to quiet his nerves and his suppressed fears, "you and I might as well start out by being friends."

"Sold!" said Jim.

Powell went on to say that, although he was no cry baby, he didn't mind confessing that he was a little shaky.

"You've been through it. What was it like?"

Jim shrugged. "Not so bad as you'd imagine. Don't let anything worry you. You'll never see the bullet that tags you."

It was on November 7 that the devils of war and circumstance took seats in the game along with Jim Elwell, and began to shuffle their cards.

In the very first hand that was dealt Jim on this occasion he drew a fat little joker. This joker looked good to him—then. It was in the form of an order to take command of a machine gun squad of five and find a covered position likely to cover some nest of "pill guns."

"You're comin' with me, Powell," Jim told his new friend. And Powell smiled, but his face had gone suddenly ashen and his lips trembled nervously.

The squad found the position. This was in a little ravine where the hilltop overlooked Montmedy with the Belgian frontier in sight. It was not far from the extreme point of advance of the American army in the Battle of Sedan, the last battle of the war and the one tha throught on the armistice.

It sure was a "grand position" for machine guns, as Jim remarked to Powell. But the latter laughed queerly.

"I've got a hunch," he said. "I've got a hunch that something's going to happen to me today. If it does, I've got two letters sewed up in my coat. One's to my mother and one's to my girl back in Newark. If I'm bumped off, buddy, I want you to mail 'em."

Jim consented but, laughing, told Powell he had better shake his hunch.

"Hunches don't fit in with a machine gun squad."

"All right, Jim, maybe I'm crazy. But—"

"Forget it." And thus the subject was dropped, and the little detail began pouring bullets into a bunch of underbrush down the river bank which Jim thought looked like an enemy pill box.

He was right. Their own fire was met with a steady spill of machine gun pills. Jim's men, however, were in a snug position in their little ravine with a creek at the bottom.

Finally the pill box seemed to have shaken itself empty. After an hour had passed and no further return had been made to their fire Jim Elwell raised up to take a look.

It lay like a lump in my stomach and caused a tight choking feeling in my chest and throat.

"But all those symptoms have disappeared and I'm enjoying the best health of my life since trying Tanlac. Instead of the old torpid drowsy feeling that dragged me down, I'm spry and active. Instead of the old headaches and dizzy spells my head is clear and free from pain. I eat, sleep and feel like an entirely new woman. Tanlac is the best ever and has my full endorsement."

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

FINISH OF JACK LESLIE

AT the sound of Mary Harrison's voice demanding that Jack Leslie permit her to leave his apartment, to which he had induced her to come on the pretext of giving a party for her, I put out my hand and grasped Lillian's arm. Noel Veritzen had asked my aid to rescue the masked dancer from the plot of Jack Leslie. But here was Mary Harrison in her place. Or was Mary the masked dancer?

"Put one over on you that time, didn't I, sweetheart?" Leslie said. "Of course there's no party here, only just you and me. We're going to have a lovely party, and you aren't going home till you'll come with me on a nice long auto ride to a State where we can get married."

"Married!" Mary Harrison breathed. "To you!"

"Yes, you damned little iceberg, married to me," he said. "or—not—just as I happen to choose. I'm going to have my fill of kisses tonight, and I'll put you wise to the fact that it isn't the slightest use for you to scream. There's nobody above or below us."

Mary gave one frightened cry. Grantland said: "Now!" But before the word at which we all rushed through the door, Noel Veritzen had dashed into the other room and we heard his ringing voice: "There! You swine!" and the sound of a blow.

Lillian stopped and barred the way. "Let him have his moment," she whispered. We waited, while the sounds of berserk struggle went on in that other room, terminated by a heavy fall and a horrified cry from Mary. Then we rushed in to see Leslie upon the floor only half conscious, while Noel Veritzen leaned against the wall.

The dancer glared at Noel Veritzen. "You cheap thief," he said. "At your old tricks, only this time you steal my girl."

"One word more and I'll finish up what this boy has started," he said grimly. "Don't make any mistake. We're not going to the police about you, so that you'll have a chance to get your picture on the first page."

He stopped and whispered something in young Leslie's ear, then spoke crisply to Lee Chow.

"Is he able to telephone?"

"Yes."

"Then we'll get out of here." He turned to Noel Veritzen, lifted his right hand gently and looked at it.

Marcy Harrison pulled her drooping figure erect in my arms.

The young violinist who had sacrificed his means of livelihood for her, looked across at her with a twisted smile.

"It was cheap at the price," he said.

Hugh Grantland hurried us out of the house, leaving the dancer still prostrate on the floor. We climbed into the limousine and Hugh spoke to the driver.

"To the ——— Hospital," he said "but signal the first taxi you meet."

When the taxi had ranged itself outside, Lee Chow climbed out and got into it.

We were swept up to the hospital, into which Hugh Grantland hustled Noel Veritzen, by this time colorless and almost swooning from pain. He had spoken a few word to Lillian as he left, and no sooner was he gone than my friend spoke kindly but firmly.

"No one is going to reproach you, Mary. I think you are having your own punishment, but you must explain how you managed this. Of course, it was Mrs. Baker—but how—"

The child shuddered in my arms. "I was going to stop this week," she wailed. "I was getting ashamed of myself for being such a lying little beast. Mrs. Baker told me to stage all that stunt—but she hates you, anyway. I'll take any punishment you name. Of course, this ends me with Mr. Veritzen and everybody. But this is the way we worked it:

"Mrs. Baker, who isn't nearly as old or lame as she pretends, was once an actress, and she can make up to look like almost anybody. She got a curly bob like mine, and she made up her face to look like mine, and she practiced imitating my voice, and then each night she'd steal in through that unused door and get into my bed, while I'd go into her room and dress up in a wig like hers and get into those awful spectacles and that cloak."

Hugh Grantland returned to the limousine. He gave the number of my apartment to the driver, and then took his seat facing us.

When we entered the apartment it was a wild-eyed, dishevelled, drawn-faced Dicky who rushed across the room to me.

"Oh, my God, Madge! I know now," he cried. "And you never can forgive me."

He sprang forward and grasped Mary's arm.

"You little hell-cat!" he gasped. "What did you try to poison me for and let your Auntie Madge be blamed for it?"

YOU'LL LIKE TRADING AT SCHAEFNER'S

Two ways of buying an outfit--

Buying an outfit means that you are selecting furnishings that you must live with a great many years. You should choose it just as you would choose a good friend or companion.

One way is to walk into a furniture store and just buy, or have sold to you, what you think you will need, or what the salesman wants to sell you.

The other way is to go to a store where a real INTEREST will be taken in your purchase. You will be placed in the hands of a salesman, one who is married; who has helped PLAN with many couples, and who is capable of offering many suggestions that will be of value to you. You will, under this plan, buy furniture that you will always be happy with—you will make no mistakes such as having furniture that vexes you every time you look at it. And, you must remember that you do have to look at your furniture day by day, for years to come.

Also, we appreciate that it costs money to get married, so terms are made "as you can afford." Welcome. Make a special evening appointment if you wish.

Recreational Ball Commission Will Meet Tonight

TWO LEADERS IN LEAGUE TO BOWL TONIGHT

Bradley Drugs Face Richman's and Midland Mutuals Meet Dugans

The two leaders in the National Bowling League will roll tonight, but not against each other. Bradley Drugs, who still claim a hold on first place, will meet the Richman crew while Midland Mutuals, who have a firm hold on second place and an even break for the lead in the league, will take on Jim Dugan's outfit.

The Mutuals are three games behind in their schedule as the result of a postponed match last week with the Motorcycles. The games will probably be rolled the last of the season, which comes to a close next week. Should the Mutuals win the three games against the Cycles, they have a one-game lead on the Drugs.

The two teams have been running neck and neck for the last five weeks, both winning at least two out of three contests. Last week, however, the Drugs stumbled and dropped in their percentage column.

According to the standings, the Motorcycles, coming third, are still in the race. They will roll against Smart & Waddell Tuesday night while Bentz Tires meet the Buicks on the local alleys.

With only one more round after this week and one of the tightest races ever seen in a Marion bowling league, a capacity crowd is expected to see the games on the Y. M. C. A. alleys tonight.

BASEBALL PRACTICE STARTS AT ASHLAND

Thirty Candidates Out for Positions on College Squad; New Uniforms

Baseball practice at Ashland College began in earnest this week with approximately thirty candidates, togged up in bright new uniforms, out for positions.

Five letter men of last year reported to Coach Til Kiefer at practice, Thursday. They are Fendrick, Lersch, Eichelberger, Ruder and Johnson. Around these men he will have to build his team. "Yet with almost 20 entirely new men, who are attending Ashland for the first time this year, showing up well, prospects for a first rate team are bright," he stated the other day.

George Johnson veteran pitcher of Akron, is back at the game again, and will probably occupy the mound. From all appearances Shaum, Wooster college freshman of last year, will also hold the same position part of the time.

Potter, Ralph Thauvette, and Sensenbaugh are candidates in competition for catcher. This position was left vacant by Paxton, rated as one of the best catchers that Ashland has ever had.

FIRST MEETING OF SEASON IS CALLED AT "Y"

To Set Date for Annual Banquet, To Be Held in Near Future

Membes of the recreational ball commission will meet at 7:30 tonight, at the Y. M. C. A., to discuss plans for the coming season and set a date for the annual banquet, which is to be held within the next two weeks.

It will be the first meeting of the year in Marion for the purpose of discussing recreational ball, probably the greatest sport ever enjoyed in this city.

With the basketball season practically gone, only one or two games remaining on schedules in Marion County, sport fans turn their attention to baseball and its associate, recreational ball. Already several teams have held practice sessions and played practice games. Others are holding meetings this week to organize and elect officers of their respective clubs.

If the weather continues to be favorable, it is expected that many diamonds will be placed into use before the week is over. Captains and managers are being chosen to represent each team at the banquet in the election of a new commission.

It is rumored that an increased number of teams may necessitate a new league this season. There were five eight-team leagues last year with almost every open lot in Marion being used during the late afternoon sessions. If another league is necessary, it is probable that the playing season will begin about May 1 in order to get in as many games as possible on each schedule.

There has been much talk about a Junior league but whether or not plans for an organization of this kind will be perfected will not be known until after the election of the new commission.

FINNEGAN VS. FINK

New York, Apr. 4—Honey Boy Finnegan of Boston, who is recognized by the National Boxing Federation as the world's featherweight champion, will clash with Frankie Fink of Texas in a ten-round bout here tonight. Finnegan is favored to win.

OHIO RELAY HOSTS

Here are the official hosts and the scene of the fourth annual Ohio Relays, to be held at Columbus April 23. Early indications point to the largest and most representative competition in the history of the Buckeye track games.

From left to right the "Big Four" of the Ohio Relays include George H. Trautman, assistant Ohio State athletic director, who established the games; Dr. F. R. Castleman (top), varsity track coach; Captain John Bevan, (bottom) of Steubenville, of the Ohio State varsity squad; and W. D. "Bill" Griffith, former varsity captain, and freshman coach, who is the new manager of the Relays.

The revised Ohio Relays program will be held this year on the single day, Saturday, April 23. Preliminaries will be run off in the morning. Nearly 40 events are slated for college, university and high school athletes from all parts of the eastern half of the country.

Commissioner Townsend Plans Baseball Revival in High Schools of Ohio

Harding High Will Not Have Team This Year; Little Interest Shown in Diamond Sport in Local High School Athletic Circles in Previous Years

A determined effort will be made within the next two years by High School Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend and Ohio colleges and universities to bring about a revival of baseball in the various schools and colleges through the state, it was said today.

Evidence of the lack of interest in high school baseball has been seen in Marion during the last few years. Harding High has finally discontinued the "National Pastime" except in contests between classes.

When Harding had a baseball team a few years ago, little or no interest was shown, it is said. If the local school was to have a team this season for competitive sport with other North Central Ohio League schools, it would have to purchase all new equipment. The patronage at the games is not large enough for the financial support of a local high school nine.

Few high schools throughout Ohio have baseball teams in comparison with the number that carry on activities in football and basketball. Baseball comes in the same season with track and while a number of schools can turn out a track and field squad, they are unable to work up enough baseball enthusiasm to support a diamond crew.

Only 47 per cent of the high schools in northeastern Ohio have baseball outfits, a survey conducted by Commissioner Townsend showed today. Short seasons are given in addition as one of the reasons for the abandoning of the game.

Colleges and universities throughout the state, alarmed by the dearth of high-class high school baseball material, have pledged their co-operation to Townsend and have indicated their willingness to conduct baseball tournaments on the same line now employed in basket-ball. District affairs of this kind, culminating in the meeting of survivors at Columbus or some central point for the state high school championship are among the plans advanced for the restoration of interest in the game, into which heavy inroads have been made of late by golf, tennis, track and other spring sports.

It has been pointed out that baseball is an ideal high school sport, inasmuch as it does not entail the feverish exertion of football and basket-ball, now so popular in the interscholastic athletic curriculum. It is a sport which can be enjoyed by lads of high school age much more than football and basket-ball and is one which does not interfere seriously with scholastic activities.

Little will be done on the project this year but the missionary work will start in earnest next fall.

Golf Season Will Soon Be Here; Fans Ready for Opening

LOCAL COURSE IN EXCELLENT SHAPE, REPORT

Club House To Open About May 1: Play May Get Under Way Soon

While the club house will not open until about May 1, play on the links of the Marion Country Club may get under way within the next two or three weeks, it was announced today. Should favorable weather set in golfing will be in style before Easter.

Local clothing stores report an advance sale of sporting togs for the links and we saw a young man strutting his stuff down Center-st the other day with his bag of clubs. Those signs cannot be ignored. And then, in addition it is reported that some of the Steam Shovel employes are making use of the new gymnasium for a little early practice.

Everything points to one of the greatest golfing seasons ever enjoyed in Marion. More interest and pep is already being shown than was in evidence a few weeks after the season was under way last year. The country club has more members and is expected to continue growing during the spring and summer.

Course in Condition

The course is reported to be in excellent condition this year, several local enthusiasts having made a trip about the grounds this early in the season to "just look things over." Everything is all set for favorable weather and the first call. When Frank Longshore, chairman of the greens committee, says so—the golf bugs will flock to the links like flies to a cake with sticky frosting.

A new golf pro, Wilson by name, has been engaged for the Marion Country Club this season. He will take the place of Jack Curley, who held that position last year. Wilson hails from the South and comes here with an excellent reputation.

A number of golf tournaments were held last year with huge success and it is probable that another group will be planned early this season.

Moriarty and M'Manus Top Reasons for Improved Team of Detroit Tigers

BY NORMAN E. BROWN

Here are the principal reasons why Detroit fans in particular and American League fans in general may well expect the Detroit Tigers to play better baseball this coming summer.

George Moriarty.

Marty McManus.

Elimination of petty jealousies, discontent and "dogging" on the club.

Improvement in the defensive and base running angles of play.

Logical improvement in the pitching, due to experience gained by youngsters —in addition to more intelligent handling.

Moriarty Gets Results

The presence of Moriarty and McManus can be considered very concrete and logical reasons for expecting more and better baseball from the Detroit club.

No one questioned Moriarty's ability when his appointment as pilot was announced. He has shown already that he knows his baseball. He changed a disgruntled, inharmonious ball club of individuals into a co-operative, ambitious society of ball players, almost over night—the first 24 hours in camp. This by the simple process of making it clear that Ty Cobb had departed and George Moriarty was in charge—to accept all blame for the team's failures and the while giving the men due credit for whatever part they played in the team's success.

Cobb always has held his own game above reproach and the ill-feeling on the club was caused mainly by his habit of making it clear that the only kind of baseball he wanted was Ty Cobb baseball and couldn't hope to get it, because there were no more Ty Cobbs.

Moriarty proceeded to turn the "fighting" instinct of his players into the right channel—the desire to win instead of the desire to poke the manager or someone else on his own team in the snoot.

And while making these simple changes he proceeded to demonstrate his knowledge of the general shortcomings of the team, individually and collectively, compiled while watching the team from the umpire's seat. His knowledge of conditions in general and the logical remedies soon won him the respect of the team.

Shades of Ty Cobb!

His frank announcement that the team's base running was poor despite the presence on the team for several seasons of the most brilliant base runner in baseball's history, indicates his fearlessness in meeting conditions.

Manager George Moriarty, left, and Marty McManus

The acquisition of McManus, Brown second baseman, gives his team one of the best keystone men in the game —when that player decides to be. He gives Moriarty and the Tiger team a "key man" or snubbing post for the infield—a bit of furniture the team has lacked for years. His presence will be recorded in base hits cut down, rallies nipped, and double plays executed as the season wears on.

As for the other factors mentioned, they are more or less intangible, but logical conclusions.

Hitters Will Hit Together

The team has the greatest galaxy of hitters of any club in the majors. The value of this "murderers' row" was lessened by the ill-feeling toward Cobb, poor team play on the offense, and general dissension in the ranks. Cobb is gone. Moriarty wields no bat himself —nor is he included in the lineup. These sluggers have no one to steal their thunder.

Cobb never obtained results from his pitchers—regardless of kind, age or experience. It is to be presumed that Moriarty, a more capable judge of pitching, will increase the efficiency of his men, regardless of the classification mentioned. In addition to the men Cobb willed him Moriarty finds himself blessed with Jess Doyle and Owen Carroll, prepped for a year by Dan Howley. These men and the improvement expected in the others should offset the loss of old George Dauss.

You may argue as to the probable position of the Tigers at the end of next September, but you must accept the team as a better ball club right now than it was last fall—or any other fall under Cobb's management.

TRAINING CAMP CHATTER

ATLANTA, Ga., April 4—As a result of their 4 to 2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals at Montgomery yesterday, the Yankees now have won two games to the Cardinals' three in the "spring world's series." Hoyt's pitching and two Ruthian doubles enabled the Yanks to win. The series will be resumed here today.

Mobile, Ala., Apr. 4—The pennant stock of the supposedly weak-hitting Brooklyn Robins was soaring today following their second victory over the Cleveland Indians, 8 to 7. Five runs in the sixth inning put the game on ice.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., APR 4—HAVING SWAMPED MEMPHIS 23 TO 2, THE GIANTS ARE HERE TODAY TO RESUME THEIR SERIES WITH WASHINGTON. OUTFIELDER ANDY REESE, WHO FORMERLY PLAYED WITH MEMPHIS, MADE SIX HITS, TWO OF THEM COMING IN THE FIRST INNING WHEN THE GIANTS SCORED TEN RUNS.

SHREVEPORT, La., Apr. 4—The rubber event of a seven-game series between the White Sox and Shreveport of the Texas League will be played today. Each team has won three games. The Sox played miserable ball yesterday and lost 13 to 3. Faber and Batnabee pitched.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Apr. 4—The Cubs here today for an exhibition game came against the local western league team. They won at Dallas yesterday over the Texas League champions, 11 to 6. Hack Wilson's home run with two on was the act that finally roped the steers.

* * *

NEW ORLEANS, APR. 4—EXCELLENT WEATHER IS PLEASING THE CLEVELAND INDIANS, NOW WINDING UP THEIR TRAINING SEASON HERE. IN FACT THERE ARE RUMORS IN THE AIR THAT THE REDSKINS MAY TRY TO LAND THE GULF CITY FOR A REGULAR TAINING STATION.

IN SPITE OF THE GOOD WEATHER, HOWEVER, THE TRIBE LOST ANOTHER GAME SUNDAY TO UNCLE WILBERT'S BROOKLYN DODGERS, 8 TO 7.

GENE SARAZEN STILL JINX FOR WALTER HAGEN

White Sulphur Springs, Va., April 4—Gene Sarazen has not been going well this year, but he still is a jinx for Walter Hagen.

Gene defeated Walter, 2 and 1, in their special 36-hole match here Sunday, marking the fourth victory for the diminutive Sarazen in five starts against Hagen. Sarazen has a card of 72-70, against Hagen's 76-73.

Jack Dempsey May Have to Submit to Operation Before He Returns to Ring

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Apr. 4—It developed today that Jack Dempsey, the man with bigger and better carbuncles, may have to undergo a more or less serious operation before he can return to boxing, if at all. His physicians have diagnosed his case an an imperfect recovery from an operation for fistula, performed shortly after the Firpo riot; his melancholy performance against Gene Tunney and the series of skin eruptions and poisonings that followed are traced to the same source.

Having done which, the men of medicine say it must be the old nose bag with ether or the nose dive with resin and razzberries.

Dempsey, according to one of the few men who enjoy his complete confidence, hasn't any particular use for either alternative; in fact, his distaste for the first is so marked that he is prone to take a chance on the second and has asked for and been granted a stay of 30 days in which he is to prove that he is the same old Dempsey.

May Have Operation

If his early training fails to produce the desired effect, Dempsey then will come East, enter some New York hospital and let the surgeons do their worst. The fact that Jack is prepared to go that far with the matter, even though he fears ether as the average man fears death, gives a pretty fair line on just how sincere the ex-champion is in his desire for another fight with Tunney.

The program at the moment calls for Dempsey to start East early in May, either to begin intensive training or to submit to the operation in question. He expects to be ready for his first bout by July 4.

His physicians, it is said, are frankly skeptical of his plan to train himself out of the disorders now affecting his system and are urging an immediate operation to save time and give him a longer period of recuperation. Their story is that Dempsey would be champion today if he had submitted to the operation when he first tied up with Tunney early last summer.

Their examinations, they say, have revealed that Dempsey, although born 32 years ago, has the heart, lungs and tissues of a man 24 and they feel that if the poisonous condition is removed he will be as sound physically as the night he indulged in that seance of ground and lofty tumbling with Luis Angel Firpo, the man with the bearded chest. In effect, they have declared Dempsey to be a martyr to his fear of the anaesthetic.

Weight 210 Pounds

The young man's present weight is said to range around 210 pounds, which means that he must have at least six weeks of intensive work before he can hope to get down to his fighting edge. It also probably will mean that Dempsey won't be exactly "right" when and if the first fight in his come back program takes place. However, I suppose this is all for the best, since perfect condition in July might mean imperfect condition for Tunney in September.

EGGARS LEADS BOWLING

Peoria, Ill., Apr. 4—Bill Eggars, member of the P. H. Moynahan team, Chicago, today held the lead in the American bowling congress tournament with a total of 706, topping the mark of 701 established by H. Peterson, Chicago, three weeks ago. Eggars scores were 233, 247, 226.

Ten Big League Players in Six Years Come from University of California

Berkeley, Cal. Apr. 4—University of California baseball teams have sent ten players to the big leagues during the past six years, a survey of the college baseball rosters several seasons back revealed today.

Ray Rowher was the first U. C. player to get a big league tryout during the regime of Carl Zamlock as baseball coach. Ray signed with the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1919, sticking in big-time company for three years. He was then sent to Pacific Coast League. In 1921 his brother, Claude Rowher, also got a chance with the Pirates and stuck the season.

Caddy Works intrigued Pirate scouts the same year and Russ Ellison signed with the Cleveland Indians. After a year's tryout Works was farmed out to the Texas league; Ellison was sent to Portland.

Moke Myers was taken on by Detroit in 1922. He played ball with San Antonio in the Texas League for three years.

Roy Douthit went up to the St. Louis Cards in 1923. Since then he has developed into a star player on the team that won the worlds championship under Rogers Hornsby last season. John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, is reported to have predicted that Douthit will become the greatest outfielder in the National League.

Dutch Thompson, George Makin and Bob Minty, former Golden Bear baseball players, had chances in the big leagues with the St. Louis Cards but all three were eventually farmed. Makin is now with Oakland in the Coast league; Minty is playing in the Texas circuit.

Jack Nounman of the 1926 varsity is the lastest California player to go up. He is now in spring training camp with the Detroit Tigers.

With the Pirates and the Cubs coming out to California regularly for spring training and with the Giants understood to be considering this state as a potential training camp in 1928, prospects for more California collegians getting major league tryouts are encouraging. The players listed above are from the University of California alone. Stanford and the University of Southern California, the two other big universities in the state, are also well represented in the majors.

Crestline Artists Appear Before Galion Audience in Sunday Afternoon Concert

High School Orchestra Assisted by Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs Presents Program Before Large and Appreciative Assemblage

Galion Apr. 4. A Sunday afternoon concert of decided merit was presented under the direction of Miss Bessie Todd to a large audience of Galion music lovers in the high school auditorium yesterday. The orchestra of Crestline high school assisted by the boys' and girls' glee clubs gave a program of noteworthy selections. The orchestra under the direction of R. B. Smith, superintendent of schools, has appeared in the city many times in concert in the last several years and have always been well received. Yesterday, however, their work far excelled anything previously done and patrons were liberal in their praise of the youthful musicians. Among the numbers given by the orchestra were: "The Blue Danube Waltzes" by Strauss and the beautiful unfinished, "Symphony in B Minor" by Shubert.

Glee Clubs Sing

Under the direction of Miss Sarah Dunn the two glee clubs of the neighboring school, gave several choruses from the opera "Martha" and were encored repeatedly.

Others assisting were Earl Beach and Esther Eichler, pianists of Crestline, Alta Pittman, organist, and Mrs. W. W. Koppe, soprano of Galion.

For the past three seasons, Miss Todd has supervised series of Sunday afternoon concerts which have met with great approval. Besides offering the best in local talent, visiting artists have been introduced and the quality of performance became so excellent that the concerts drew large crowds of interested people from other surrounding cities. It was with keen regret that Miss Todd announced that the spring season this year would be without the popular musical affairs and that the program presented yesterday would be the only one scheduled.

Medical examination made by physicians at the McKitrick Hospital where Oster was taken following the crash, showed that he sustained severe cuts about the head and body. No bones were broken.

According to information the accident happened when Oster attempted to turn up the tracks to avoid ramming into a freight that suddenly pulled across the crossing. FARMERS PLAN PEST SURVEY IN HARDIN COUNTY

Committee To Determine Actual Existence of Borer in Vicinity

Kenton, Apr. 4—Investigation to determine whether or not the European corn borer actually exists in Hardin County and the formulation of a plan of action to prevent farmers from suffering any unjustifiable imposition under the governmental regulations for the control of the pest, will be undertaken early this week by a special executive committee of 10 farmers, appointment of which was authorized Saturday night at a mass meeting of farmers from the quarantine area.

Selection of the committeemen will be made possibly today by Frank Lawhus, Hepburn, acting chairman of the meeting Saturday night. They will commence investigations immediately with the view of reporting recommendations for action before a second mass meeting later in the week.

One of the first steps will be that of finding out whether the borer has actually been found in the county and if so on which farms it was said to have been discovered by federal and state agricultural inspectors.

Because of the lateness of the season and the fact that the majority of farmers are not prepared with power or labor to plow the corn stubble under before oats planting, the committee will probably confer with leaders of the corn borer control movement in an effort to have the government regulations modified to some extent that they will not work a hardship, this year at least.

The mass meeting did not go on record as opposed to the corn borer control campaign should it be proven justifiable here. Rather the farmers favored organization to determine what seems the best business thing to do after all facts are known. Speaking briefly on organization plans, Atty. Charles R. Price said that the farmers in the quarantine area should stand ready, if the pest really exists in the county, to do the advisable things for its control and, on the other hand, if the pest has not invaded the county, to stand on their rights as farmers to relieve themselves from the quarantine and get out of it.

Daily Bedtime Story

BY HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

Within the bungleump, where Uncle Wiggily was staying for a time with the Wogglejigs, sounded, one day, many strange noises. There were shouts, yells and calling voices.

"Where's my red tail?" Dumple wanted to know.

"Has anybody seen my left hind prop leg?" asked Bumple.

"Somebody has my blue head!" cried Dazie.

"There it is under the piano," said Boppy, the little wooden man, who, with Um, his little wooden wife, kept the Wogglejigs in order. And the little wooden creatures needed keeping in order very much, for they were always getting scrambled and mixed up with their heads, tails and legs, which came off and went on as easily as a pair of gloves do for you.

But at last, with Uncle Wiggily's help, the six little Wogglejigs were all unscrambled and had started for school, so Boppy said to the rabbit gentleman:

"Now, let's you and I go off ourselves and have a nice adventure; shall we?"

"Yes, indeed!" answered Mr. Longears with a jolly twinkle of his pink nose. "But what about Um?"

"Oh, I'm going to stay in and wash the dishes," answered the little wooden woman.

You might imagine, if you saw Um, that she could never wash dishes, for she had no arms or legs, being just a round piece of wood with a head. But Um was smart. And when she had rolled the dishpan by bumping against it up close to the sink, she turned on the water by banging her head against the faucet and so filled the pan.

She bumped and bobbed a piece of soap into the pan, she bumped and bobbed the dishes into the pan and then she jumped in herself and bobbed up and down, making a lovely lot of suds and so she washed the dishes.

Meanwhile Boppy and Uncle Wiggily had gone to the woods. The rabbit gentleman hopped along and Boppy, the little wooden man, who, like Um, had no arms or legs, rolled himself along, sometimes standing up and bobbing along for a change.

"Aren't we going to find an adventure pretty soon?" asked Boppy, turning his funny little head around and around on his wooden neck and looking at Uncle Wiggily. "I'd like an adventure."

"You never can tell when you are going to find one!" answered the rabbit gentleman.

"Oh, yes, you can!" a voice suddenly growled. "You are going to find an adventure right away! I'm it! I'm an adventure!"

With that, out of the bushes stalked a big, black, shaggy bear—not good, kind Mr. Stubtail, the bear father of Neddie and Beckie, but a cross hungry bear.

"I'm your adventure!" growled the Bear and," he went on, looking straight at Uncle Wiggily, "you are my lunch!"

"Your lunch? I'm afraid I don't quite understand," murmured Mr. Longears.

"You will understand very soon!" rumbled the Bear. "I am going to eat you for my lunch."

"What about me?" asked Boppy.

"Do you mean your lunch?" asked the Bear. "Well, you aren't going to have any lunch! I'll need Uncle Wiggily all for myself."

"No, I meant are you going to eat me?" asked Boppy, while Uncle Wiggily was trying to slip away and hide so the Bear couldn't get him. "Are you going to eat me?" asked Boppy.

"Don't make me laugh. I have a cold sore on my lip!" chuckled the Bear. "I wouldn't eat you—you're wood, you know."

"Quite true," said Boppy. "But if you won't eat me you shan't eat Uncle Wiggily!" and with that Boppy began bouncing up in the air. Hard and fast he bounced, higher and higher, until he bounced up over the Bear's head. Then, all of a sudden, Boppy came down hard on the soft and tender nose of the Bear.

Mr. Robin was hopping sadly along a branch.

"Wow! Ouchie!" howled the Bear. "You surprise me!"

"Well, here's another surprise!" cried Uncle Wiggily, throwing a stone and hitting the Bear on his nose again. "And here's a third surprise," shouted Boppy bobbing up again and coming down once more on the Bear's nose.

"Too many surprises aren't good for me! I'll get my lunch somewhere else," growled the Bear. Away he shuffled, while Boppy and the rabbit gentleman laughed. So it all ended happily.

Foresight or Hindsight?

Have you ever heard something like this? "I could have bought that corner once for $500, look at it now, worth $30,000." That's hindsight!

Don't be accused of hindsight ten years hence. There is no quicker or surer way to accumulate wealth than in making opportune buys in vacant property, viz: LOTS. The steady growth of Marion eliminates any elements of chance. Real estate values are on the steady incline and now is the time to get in on the ground floor. NOW read the classification "Property for sale" and "Lots for sale" in the want ads below.

GRAND — Thur-Fri-Sat

WILLIAM FOX presents Tom Mix and TONY the wonder horse in The LAST TRAIL

ZANE GREY'S Whirlwind story of the Plains

BEHIND THE SCREEN

When First National gets around to filming, "The Miracle" gigantic religious spectacle, lovely Mary Astor probably will play the role of the Nun, created on the stage in this country by Rosamond Pinchot when the production opened in New York.

* * *

WORD comes from abroad that Rex Ingram, discoverer of "stars," has unearthed a player in England who seems destined for film honors. He is Gerald Fielding, said to be the 24-year-old son of a prominent English family. He came to Ingram, requesting any kind of a job, accordingly Rex put him in the property room. Playing a hunch, Ingram gave him a role in "The Garden of Allah," which he is making in France.

It was in Rex Ingram's picture, "The Four Horsemen," that Rudolph Valentino first gained fame and it was this same director who brought Barbara LaMarr to the attention to the public, so he'll probably have no trouble in convincing Metro of the merits of this young Englishman, should he desire to bring him to this country.

"The mail must get there, regardless of life, hardship or torture," is the theme of Warner Brothers drama of the mail service, "The Romance of the U. S. Mail." It will take in all phases of the service from the time of the pony express riders of the old Wells-Fargo days up to the present airmail planes speeding across the continent.

M-G-M has added anthore Swedish player, Mona Martenson, to its roster. Some years ao Mauritz Stiller directed her in "The Atonement of Gosta Berling," Nobel prize story by Selma Lagerlof. Greta Garbo played the ingenue role. Miss Martenson will arrive here in June when her contract with a Swedish company terminates.

Fred Thomson's first picture for Paramount will be "The Life of Jesse James." He believes Jesse James was more sinned against than sinning. This will be followed by "The Life of David Crockett."

There is one redeeming feature about a chronic borrower; he never strikes a man when he is down.

Conscience tells us we mustn't be selfish, though if we aren't a little, we will soon be an empty shell.

The larger a man's salary is the larger the increase he thinks he is entitled to.

RAILROAD SPURT HELPS OTHER MARKED ISSUES

Downward Trend Stopped; Motor and Steel Shares Join Rails in Upward Swing

MARKETS AT A GLANCE: Railroad stocks, firm; industrials, irregular; domestic bonds, steady; foreign bonds, firm; call money, 4½ per cent; grain, steady; copper, irregular; oil, weak; cotton, steady; rubber, steady; sugar, irregular; pig iron, steady; foreign exchange, firm.

New York, Apr. 4—A spurt in the railroad stocks, based on the satisfactory increase in February and March net earnings and the comparatively higher rate of current freight traffic, stimulated active buying of stocks in other sections of the market and arrested the downward price movement which was in progress in the first period.

The improvement in the rail shares extended all the way from the speculative "merger" stocks to the better grade of investment issues of the type of New York Central, Atchison and Baltimore & Ohio. Professional buying of the stocks in this group accompanied informal statements of Wall Street experts to the effect that the rails had not participated in the upward movement of the last three weeks, while developments had been more favorable for the railroads than for the industrial companies.

There were evidences of the same cross-movements in speculative stocks as in the last three sessions of last week. The oil industry, for example, could give no definite evidence of having its over-production situation in hand, and the oil stocks were freely offered on the decline. On the other hand the steel and motor stocks were ready to join with the rails in seeking higher price levels, while various specialty stocks made good recoveries.

SLIGHT DAMAGE CAUSED BY TWO WEEK-END FIRES

Slight damage resulted from two fires Sunday. Firemen were called to the home of John R. Wagner 426 Cherry-st. shortly after two o'clock yesterday afternoon when sparks from a chimney set the roof on fire. The damage amounted to approximately $5.

The wiring was damaged in an Oldsmobile touring car belonging to Charles Lehman, 328 Chestnut-st, Sunday night when a short circuit caused a blaze. Firemen were called six miles west of the city to put out this blaze.

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Prices were unchanged today, the old prices holding until the new supplies get into the markets. LOANS up to $500

Views of life are sometimes distorted by living conditions not particularly due to one's own making or choosing. Lack of money warps too many good minds and characters. There comes a time in almost everybody's life when he is confronted with the problem of meeting certain obligations, with no ready cash in sight or not enough money in hand to pay them in full.

Even so, there is no need for "singing the blues" or becoming downhearted. Making others more comfortable and happy through the popular City Loan Cash plan is our main business. When you find yourself face to face with the aggravating necessity of raising ready cash, come to us. You can always borrow money here in sizable amounts on your own security, and you will confess to yourself, "what a sense of security it is to know I have a friend like The City Loan that I can always depend on."

Snyder-Gray Trial to Rival That of Thaw, Loeb, Leopold

CASE PROMISES MANY THRILLS AS IT UNFOLDS

Opens Next Monday in Long Island City; Net Work of Wires Prepared

New York, April 4.—Another murder trial—the Snyder case—is about to make its bid for front page space in the newspapers of the nation

It opens next Monday in Long Island City, and is replete with the elements that make a great news story—the bored young wife, the prosaic middle-aged husband, suburban town cocktail parties, the "man in the case," illicit love, deception, plotting, murder and now the impending threat of the electric chair for the defendants. They are Mrs. Ruth Snyder and her paramour, Henry Judd Gray, accused of beating the woman's husband, Albert Snyder, an art editor, to death with an iron window weight in the dead of the night

Steps were being taken today by the authorities to draw a blue ribbon panel from which might be selected "a burning jury"—a jury of high intelligence free from sentimentality and with no scruples against capital punishment and the electric chair for the woman as well as the man.

Network of Wires

The trial promises to be one of the most absorbing in recent years ranking from a news standpoint not far below such famous cases as Harry K Thaw's killing of Stanford White, the Hall Mills murders and the slaying of the Frank boy in Chicago by Leopold and Loeb—admittedly the three outstanding murder cases in the memory of the present generation.

A network of closed wires is being run into the basement of the Queens County courthouse for use of the hundred or more newspaper reporters, "sob sisters," and special writers known to the craft as "trained seals" who will "cover" the trial. The word age that will click forth on these wires is expected to approach in volume the amount sent out of Somerville, N. J., Dayton Tenn., White Plains, N. Y., and the "datelines" that appeared co incident with front page drama in recent months.

The Snyder trial hasn't the big names of the Thaw and Leopold-Loeb cases and lacks the mystery that attended the public mind in the Hall-Mills murders but the personalities involved in it are so typical of democratic American life that interest in the case is certain to be widespread and sustained

There was Snyder, the hard-working husband and father. Gray, the young married salesman, and Mrs Snyder, the housewife and mother experiencing the "urge" of this restless age.

Called Remarkable Woman

Then, too, Mrs Snyder, the focal figure in the tragedy, is one of the most remarkable women ever held on a murder charge She hasn't broken down although Gray is on the verge of collapse She is now planning how she will dress and act at the trial. She occupies her time in her cell culling the style magazines, writing poetry and reading books. She is said to be studying the philosophical works of Schopenhauer and Kant

She is the "Lady Macbeth" of the case, it is charged Gray claims she dominated him, actually hypnotized him. She chose the gay albeit gaudy Gray in preference to a domesticated and adoring husband and then plotted with Gray, it is charged, her husband's death. She prevailed upon her husband to attend a Saturday night party and take plenty of drinks. When he came home she helped put him to bed. As he lay in a semi-stupor he was beaten to death, strangled with picture wire and chloroformed Gray had come to the Snyder house in the dead of the night and he and Mrs. Gray, it is alleged, calmly discussed the doing away of Snyder over a bottle of whisky.

Two Youths Are Held In Burglary Attempt After Being Caught In Office

Apprehended at Kelly Island Lime & Transport Co. After Having Battered Handle and Combination Knob Off Heavy Safe

Two Marion youths are in the Marion County Detention Home awaiting hearing before Judge L. B. McNeal in Juvenile Court as a result of trying to batter open the safe of the Kelly Island Lime & Transport Co. Copeland-av, Sunday afternoon.

Officials of the company are wondering how to get the safe open today, as the boys, using a heavy sledge hammer, knocked the handle off the heavy outer door and battered the combination knob beyond use.

There was nothing of value in the safe, officials of the company said, and the strong box is usually left unlocked on Saturday night, with a sign "This safe is open" hanging on the door. The safe was locked Saturday night when the office was closed, however, and the boys battered away at it, trying to disable the locking apparatus and pry the outer door open.

The boys' names as given to Sheriff James A. Deal, are Leroy Dorf, 15, of 801 N. State-st, and Marion Darnell, 15, of N. Prospect-st

Caught in Office

John Roberts, foreman of the Kelly Island Co., caught the boys in the office when he went there at five o'clock Sunday afternoon. Roberts had been at the plant Sunday morning and returned Sunday afternoon to look the place over. He found the two boys in the office getting ready to depart, he told Sheriff Deal, whom he notified at once. They had their pockets stuffed with loose objects from the desks in the office, having been unable to get anything out of the safe.

Roberts held the boys in the office and called Sheriff Deal, who took them into custody and escorted them to the Detention Home, where they spent the night and awaited hearing today

Entrance to the office was gained by prying open a window. The boys had worked unmolested for some time, perhaps several hours, the sheriff said today, and would have made a safe getaway had not Roberts returned just in time to catch them.

While the loot they planned on taking from the desks was all recovered, the damage to the safe will be considerable, officials say.

WHIPPET ON NON-STOP DRIVE TAKES GAS HERE

To Visit City Tuesday Morning and Later During Week

The Overland Whippet, on the first round of its seven days and seven night non-stop run came into Marion at 5:15 Sunday afternoon and left at 6 o'clock. The car was traveling exactly on scheduled time.

The machine, carrying three men, stopped long enough to take on gas at the Marion Overland Co. and for the men to stretch their legs and was on its way. The machine was greeted by the largest crowd of spectators that met it anywhere on its first round of cities in Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio The car came here from Columbus and went on to Galion and Canton on its return to Toledo, which it left Saturday.

The machine will touch here two or three more times, M. L. McDaniels, head of the Marion Overland Co., said today. The next time will be too early for most Marionites to view it, as it will come here at 1:30 Tuesday morning. The time for the next visits here before the run closes will be announced later.

The machine is painted with the questions in the guessing contest covering mileage and gas consumption which are being conducted by dealers during the run.

FARMERS TO SEE PULVERIZER AT WORK THURSDAY

Demonstrations Are Scheduled for Both Morning and Afternoon

The first demonstration of the new stubble pulverizer, a machine designed to combat the corn borer, will be given at the plowing demonstrations which will be held Thursday Banks Collings in charge of the corn borer educational campaign announced this morning

The machine will be shown at two demonstrations Thursday the first at 9:30 a. m., at the farm of W. T Owen, two and one-half miles southeast of Marion on the Marion-Edison-pk. The second demonstration will be at the farm of Otis Boyd, one half mile northwest of LaRue, on the Rivers rd, at 1:30 Thursday afternoon

To Demonstrate Plows

At both these meetings there will be demonstrations of plowing, showing farmers how to adjust plows so as to get the best results in turning under corn stalks and stubble. I. P. Blauser, of the Illinois Department of Agriculture will be at both meetings and will conduct the plowing demonstrations.

In case of unfavorable weather for plowing, the meetings will be held in the barn or barnyard and the adjustments to the plows will be shown there.

The stubble pulverizer is a machine designed to thoroughly destroy the stubble in fields where other methods of cleaning up cannot be used The machines will be used by the federal crews only where other methods cannot be used to destroy the corn stubble. Further announcements as to how and where the stubble pulverizer will be used, will be made by Collings

Meetings This Week

The educational meetings for farmers of the various districts will continue this week, with one at Claridon tonight and another one in Tully Township, at the centralized school, Wednesday night. The Thursday night meeting will be at Agosta.

All of the meetings so far have been well attended and larger crowds than ever are expected at the meetings this week. The interest displayed last week by the farmers at the meetings is being spread about the county and is expected to result in larger audiences.

The presence of the new stubble pulverizer at the plowing demonstrations Thursday will probably bring out a larger crowd than attended either of the two demonstrations last week. This machine is part of the equipment which the government has purchased in its fight on the corn borer and the machines will be distributed throughout the quarantine area to be assigned to places where farmers are unable to use ordinary clean-up methods in destroying corn stalks and stubble.

In most votes of confidence, two or three men have made secret reservations.
